ESTABLISH DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS

Canada, Soviet Exchange Envoys

Agreement Is Signed In London

OTTAWA, June 12.—(BUP)—The agreement between Canada and Russia for the exchange of ministers was formally announced by Prime Minister Mackenzie King in the House of Commons today.

By DOUGLAS AMARON

LONDON, June 12.—(CP)—An agreement for the establishment of direct diplomatic relations and an exchange of ministers between Canada and Russia was signed at the Soviet embassy today.

High Commissioner Vincent Massey and Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky signed on behalf of their respective governments at a brief, formal ceremony which followed by four months the signing of an agreement for an exchange of consular representatives between the two countries.

The text of the agreement:

"The government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the Government of Canada have reached an agreement as follows:

1—The two governments have agreed to establish direct diplomatic relations and to exchange ministers.

2—The present agreement comes into force immediately after its signature and is not subject to ratification.

3—The present agreement is made in two copies, each of them in the Russian and English languages. Both texts have equal force."

The ceremony was over less than five minutes after Mr. Massey and M. Maisky entered the richly furnished embassy room in which they signed the documents at a gilt and marble topped regency table.

Smiling broadly after posing with Mr. Massey for innumerable photographs, M. Maisky declined to comment on the agreement which he said "speaks for itself."

"Yes, it speaks for itself," Mr. Massey concurred, adding "it is a very happy privilege to be a party to the signing of it."

OTTAWA, June 12.—(CP)—An agreement was signed in London today between Canada and Russia providing for an exchange of ministers, it was said officially here today.

General Missing

Maj.-Gen. Clarence L. Tinker, commander of the Hawaiian air force, is missing after the Battle of Midway, it was announced today by the U. S. war department. He was last seen leading a flight of army bombers to attack the Japanese fleet.

Judge Rejects Objection In Chaloult Case

MONTREAL, June 12.—(CP)—Judge Edouard Archambault today issued a written judgement rejecting a defence objection raised at the arraignment last Saturday of Rene Chaloult, Liberal member of the Quebec Legislative Assembly, on a charge laid under the Defence of Canada Regulations.

The judgment ordered Mr. Chaloult to enter a plea to the charges against him. Mr. Chaloult did not appear in court, but defence counsel refused to enter a plea, and the Crown asked that a plea of not guilty be entered. Judge Archambault accepted the plea as entered and adjourned the case until June 19 when a date for the trial will be set.

Defence counsel had raised objections to the charge, first asking if the complaint was authorized by the minister of justice as required by article 39 of the defence regulations.

A second objection was raised regarding the choice of a jury trial or by means of summary conviction, while the third objection claimed that the charge listed eight accusations and that each of the accusations should be a separate complaint.

Judge Archambault ruled the complaint had been laid in accordance with the criminal code and ordered Mr. Chaloult to make his plea.

The complaint charged Mr. Chaloult with making declarations and affirmations before several thousand persons which would cause disaffection to the King; prejudice the success of His Majesty's armies and the armies of the Allied nations and their associates; prejudice recruiting and training and discipline of His Majesty's armies; prejudice the security of the state and the successful prosecution of the war.

The charges were laid following a speech made by Mr. Chaloult at a public meeting in Montreal, May 19.

U.S. CARRIER LOST

15 Jap Ships Sunk In Coral Sea Battle

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(BUP)—The United States navy, in a final accounting of the two months' Coral Sea campaign, revealed today that more than 15 Japanese ships were sunk, including an aircraft carrier, while the United States lost three naval vessels, including the big aircraft carrier Lexington.

Besides the Lexington, the U.S. Navy lost the tanker Neosho and the destroyer Sims.

The Japanese casualties, in addition to the ships sunk, included a loss of more than 100 aircraft, the probable sinking of two other warships and severe damage to more than 20 ships. The damaged Japanese ships included a carrier, three cruisers, two aircraft tenders and three destroyers.

NEW CARRIER SUNK

The navy's summary, which included attacks by Allied forces on Salamua and Lae on the island of New Guinea and the actual battle of the Coral sea, listed the following Japanese vessels as sunk:

The new Japanese aircraft carrier Ruyukaku; three heavy cruisers; one light cruiser; two destroyers; several transports and small vessels.

The U.S.S. Lexington, old but one of the world's largest aircraft carriers, blew up and sank some time after Japanese aircraft had scored torpedo and bomb hits on her.

Nevertheless, 92 per cent of the entire ship's company was rescued and reached port safely.

OPENING ENGAGEMENT

The first real engagement of the Coral Sea campaign came on March 10, when a number of naval aircraft attached to a Pacific fleet task force, under command of Vice-Admiral Wilson Brown, joined shore based planes in a successful attack on shipping and shore installations at the two Japanese bases.

In a communique last March 18, the U. S. navy reported that more than 20 Japanese ships were sunk or damaged in this attack. The communique at that time described the attacking force as Australian and American island-based forces so as not to reveal to the enemy that carriers participated.

On May 4 a Pacific fleet task force commanded by Read Admiral Frank J. Fletcher discovered a part of a Japanese invasion fleet at anchor in and near the harbor of Tulagi, Florida island, in the Solomon group.

ANNIHILATE FORCE

Fletcher caught the Japanese by surprise and his forces all but annihilated them. A few of the enemy vessels managed to get under way but most of these were crippled and later run aground to prevent their sinking. The results of this particular engagement also were previously announced by the U.S. Navy on May 7 when the Japanese losses were announced as 12 vessels sunk or damaged and six aircraft destroyed. Allied losses totalled only three aircraft.

Three days later—May 7—Fletcher's aircraft lashed out against the main body of the Japanese concentration in the Louisiade archipelago. The new Japanese aircraft Ryukaku was sunk by 15 bomb hits and 10 torpedo hits just as it was turning into the wind to launch its aircraft. The carrier sank in a few minutes with most of its planes aboard.

Today's War Moves

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

Copyright, 1942, by the British United Press and The Edmonton Bulletin

Linked with Britain and the United States for war and peace, Russia can face the prospect of a general German offensive with renewed confidence and belief in victory.

The German offensive has been delayed beyond the expectations of Allied military experts, who thought it would have been at its height well before mid-June. Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's bold drive in the Kharkov region a month ago may have upset Hitler's schedule and caused a pause for re-shaping his plans.

It is unlikely that the offensive can be delayed much longer, if it is to succeed before summer ends.

34 More Czechs Slain By Nazis

LONDON, June 12.—(CP)—Nazi executioners in former Czecho-Slovakia have put to death another 34 persons, including 10 women, the Prague radio announced last night. The total executed since the attack on the Nazi Leader Reinhard Heydrich now is 340, not counting the men executed in the wiping out of the town off Lidice.

Bond Group's Demand Of 4 Per Cent. Interest Rate Blocks Settlement: Government Offered 3½ Per Cent.

Deliberations of the joint Alberta Debt Refunding Committee on the proposed refunding of $121,000,000 of the Alberta government's direct and guaranteed debentures now held by the public collapsed Thursday after a four-day conference which opened at the Legislative Buildings Monday.

"Views of the government and of representatives of bondholders proved irreconcilable and refunding conversations are therefore at an end," according to a statement issued late Thursday night on behalf of the Alberta Bondholders' Committee.

According to communications which passed between government representatives and bondholders' spokesmen on the eight-member committee while the conference was in progress, the committee failed to reach an accord on various issues pertaining to a proposed refunding plain. Chief points on which no accord was reached were:

1. Interest rate. Government representatives on the committee were prepared to recommend to the government a plan involving an average rate of interest of 3½ per cent. Bondholders' spokesmen were prepared to recommend acceptance by bondholders of 4 per cent. (The existing average rate on Alberta bonds is 2.44 per cent.)

2. Recognition of past due unpaid interest. Bondholders' representatives urged that payment of past due unpaid interest be recognized. Government members pointed out they could not see how it would be possible or practicable for the province to provide for the payment of or compensation for this amount.

Capital Restoration Is Main Concern

In connection with this latter point, government members of the Refunding Committee, in their communication to bondholders' representatives, stated: "Since in the opinion of the government the main concern of the individual bondholders is restoration of the capital value of their investment, we would recommend that the province set aside a fund to provide a call feature of annual redemption which would have the effect of maintaining the market price somewhere near par."

In their presentation to government representatives, bondholders' spokesmen stated the Alberta Bondholders' Committee was prepared to recommend a plan of refunding which involves three fundamental points:

1. A 4% basic rate of interest.
2. Recognition of past due unpaid interest.
3. Provision for differentials in the coupon rates on outstanding bonds to their respective maturities.

Dealing with the last-named, government members on the committee stated in their communication in reply that: "We recognize that some adjustment would be necessary

Poland Enters Discussions On Post-War Plans

By NED RUSSELL

LONDON, June 12.—(BUP)—Poland was brought into Allied negotiations on post-war Europe while Russian Foreign Commissar Viacheslav Molotov was in London on his way back to Moscow, it was learned today.

It was understood that the entire range of Allied problems in which Poland is interested directly were considered at a three-hour luncheon conference Wednesday at the Russian embassy.

Participating, besides Molotov, were Ivan Maisky, Russian ambassador; Molotov, Gen. Wladislaw Sikorski and Count Edward Raczynski, Polish premier and foreign minister; Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent under foreign secretary.

SIKORSKI

Sikorski, emphasizing Poland's position in any plans to reshape eastern Europe, said:

"Poland possesses with Russia a common frontier of 870 miles. If only because of its geographical position, Poland is a factor which possesses and must possess real influence in shaping post-war relations in this part of Europe, in its own interest and in the interest of other nations situated in this region.

"We welcome the fact that Britain, Russia and the United States have said clearly that they will not interfere in the internal affairs of other nations. The principles enunciated in the Russo-British treaty will bring humanity the permanent just peace which it deserves."

Sikorski said that though the Russian army might face some reverses Allied victory was assured.

Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, who regretted the breaking off by bondholders of refunding negotiations. However, he declared that the door is not closed to further conversations.

Door Is Not Closed Says Hon. Mr. Low

Regretting that Alberta debt refunding negotiations had been broken off Thursday by bondholders on the joint Alberta Debt Refunding Committee, Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer and chairman of the committee, said Friday morning that "the door is not closed" to further discussions on refunding.

"I regret very much that negotiations were broken off by bondholders' representatives, for I had hoped that we would have been able to get together," Mr. Low said.

"I am convinced it is possible for us yet to establish a basis of a refunding plan that would not involve heavier burdens on our people by way of taxation, but would at the same time give bondholders fair treatment."

RETURNED WRITER SAYS:

Fuehrer Can Dish Out Jokes But Can't Take 'Em On Himself

In the fifth of his series on the personal life of Adolf Hitler, Frederich C. Oechsner discusses the Nazi dictator's lighter moments.—EDITOR.

By FREDERICH C. OECHSNER

Copyright, 1942, by British United Press and The Edmonton Bulletin.

EXCLUSIVE

NEW YORK, June 12.—(BUP)—When it comes to jokes, Adolf Hitler can hand it out but he can't take it. He has a rough, barrack-room sense of humor and frequently makes jokes at the expense of such associates as Goering and Goebbels. But he is quick to resent any jokes at the expense of himself or the official position he holds in Germany.

Among the examples of Hitler's humor which bear general publication is the story of the completion of a new balcony in the Wilhelmstrasse from which Hitler was to greet the Nazi throngs.

The construction engineer was about to send out a detachment of 16 bodyguards to test its strength. Hitler, however, stopped him and said: "Never mind, Goering was just out there wearing all his medals, and it didn't give way."

While he pokes acid fun at other people, including his closest associates, Hitler cannot and will not tolerate jokes on himself. When he learned that an S.S. man, making a play on words, said, "I am from the Unterleibstandarte" (lower bodyguard) rather than from the Leibstandarte (bodyguard), Hitler was infuriated and had the man sharply disciplined.

BANS ITALIAN JOKES

Nor does Hitler like political jokes which reflect on the Nazis or their Axis partners. For example, he issued a blanket order in the chancellory that all jokes about Italians and their armed prowess should cease forthwith. Fourteen persons, nevertheless, violated these instructions and 11 were severely taken to task.

A sarcastic remark, which got back to Hitler and contributed to the tragedy of the Austrian anschluss, was dropped by the Austrian chancellor, Kurt Schuschnigg, who referred to Hitler as the Saeulenheiliger" or pillar saint.

This is a common expression in Germany meaning figurehead of

Molotov Indicts Germany For Barbarous Atrocities

LONDON, June 12—(CP)—Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov in a 1,200-word diplomatic note last night accused the German high command of introducing the "universal practice of physical extermination" of war prisoners.

The note, addressed to all governments with which Russia has relations, listed "countless crimes of plunder, destruction, devastation, atrocities, outrages, violence and mass murders" which, it said, have been "carried out in accordance with the plans of the German government."

The Germans' plans were said to have called for:

"Universal plunder of the population of our country in both towns and villages, accompanied by seizure and shipment to Germany of the personal property of Soviet citizens and the property of the Soviet state.

TOTAL DESTRUCTION

"Utter destruction of towns and villages from which the Nazis were forced to retreat under the blows of the armed forces of the Soviet Union.

"Seizure by the German army of occupation of land given by the Soviet state in perpetuity for the free use of collective farms and the settlement of German managers and German land-owners on the seized land.

"Slave labor and bondage for our workers and peasants under the rule of German Imperialist invaders.

"Forcible abduction of forced labor in Germany of several million Soviet citizens residing in towns and villages and the illegitimate classing of them as prisoners of war.

"Destruction of Russian national culture and the national culture of the peoples of the Soviet Union and the forcible Germanization of Russians, Ukrainians, White Russians, Lithuanians, Latvians, Estonians and other peoples of the U.S.S.R.

"Extermination of the Soviet population, prisoners of war and guerilla fighters by bloody violence, torture, executions and the massacre of Soviet citizens irrespective of their nationalities, social standing, sex or age."

Crammond Man Is Crushed To Death

INNISFAIL, June 12.—(CP)—When a chain hoist supporting a light delivery truck broke, Roy Rhodes, 51, of the Crammond district, 35 miles west of Innisfail, was crushed to death Thursday in his garage. He was repairing the truck from underneath.

Rhodes body was found by his family pinned underneath the truck with the gas tank crushing his chest. He had left the house shortly after lunch and it is not known how long he had been dead before the accident was discovered.

The chain hoist had lifted the truck about two feet in the air and it is understood that the wheels had been removed, allowing the entire weight of the machine to rest on his body.

His wife sent for help to a neighboring farm to help extricate the man's body and R.C.M.P. were notified.

Copper Shortage May Slow Output U.S. Arms Plants

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., June 12—(CP)—Munitions production in the United States is in "great danger" of being slowed down by a shortage of copper, G. C. Bateman, metals controller, said here yesterday before the Canadian Electrical Association convention.

Mr. Bateman said he had been told at a recent metals conference in Washington that copper is "perhaps the most critical" of all metals in the United States.

Consequently, the use of copper in Canada "must be reduced," he said, adding that firms with large inventories of the metal might be called upon to share their supplies with other possessing only small stocks. All supplies and copper-bearing equipment must be used to the maximum advantage.

Mid-Air Crash Of Planes Kills Two

WINNIPEG, June 12.—(CP)—PO A. B. Polley, an instructor at No. 12 flying training school at Brandon, Man., and an Australian student airman were killed and two other airmen escaped serious injury when their aircraft collided in mid-air at a relief airdrome at Chater, Man., five miles east of Brandon, late yesterday, Royal Canadian Air Force headquarters announced here last night.

The accident occurred when two Cessna Crane twin-motor training planes crashed while the aircraft were making circuits of the field during landing practice.

PO. Arthur Beverley Polley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Beverley Polley of Calgary, attended the University of Alberta, and the Calgary Normal school. Before enlisting in the R.C.A.F. he taught school at Beaverlodge and Craigmyle.

In October of last year he married Alice Garrett of Edmonton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Garrett of Strathmore, Alta.

All Turner Valley Producing Wells Are In Operation

CALGARY, June 12. — (CP) — Every Turner Valley well capable of producing oil is doing so, J. J. Frawley, deputy chairman of the Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board, declared yesterday.

He was questioned regarding a statement in the House of Commons at Ottawa by J. W. Noseworthy, C.C.F. member for York South, that "large oil companies have more than 100 proven wells in Turner Valley which are not producing at the present time."

A few former oil wells have been re-classified as gas wells because they produced more than 30,000 cubic feet of gas in producing a barrel of oil.

Fuehrer Can Dish It Out—Can't Take It

piety but as used by Schusschnigg it concealed a sly dig at Hitler's predilection for columns in architecture as well as to his general unctious bearing. Franz Von Papen, then minister at Vienna, with seeming casualness, repeated Schusschnigg's remark to Hitler just 48 hours before the Austrian chancellor was received at Berchtesgaden. The result, as Papen had hoped, was that Schusschnigg was treated with brutal contempt by Hitler.

PHALLIC SYMBOL

This fascination of Hitler's in columns incidentally is interpreted by medical specialists as revealing his subconscious preoccupation with the column as a phallic symbol. On the occasion of the remodeling of Hitler's house at Berchtesgaden, Goering, who often shows an ironical turn of humor said to Architect Albert Speer jokingly: "Yes, but this hall should have 400 columns in it." This remark reached Hitler, who completely missed the irony of it and considered it a sincere and wise observation on the part of his chief deputy.

Outside his circle of intimates, Hitler is not without the ability to sense opportunities for creating and enjoying small dramatic situations which centre on himself. For example, shortly after the completion of the Kehlstein eagle's nest, he invited the French ambassador, Francois Poncet, to the 1800-foot peak for a visit.

Stepping from the elevator and seeing no one around, Poncet observed ironically. "What, hasn't Wotan arrived yet?" From behind a curtain came a deep voice, equally ironic, "Yes, here he is!" and Hitler stepped forth.

On other occasions, Hitler likes to act the role of benign father to all his people. One day Hitler was walking in the chancellory garden. He met the wife of one of his bodyguardsmen carrying a one-year-old daughter in her arms. Heinrich Hoffman was following with his camera, as he often does to get candid shots, and had focused and snapped the shutter before he realized that the child had wet Hitler's tunic, making a dark stain.

Hoffman said to Hitler, "Well, of course, I will destroy this plate."

"No. Keep it for this young lady," Hitler replied. "It will some day be of great value to her and certainly it will be unique."

PLAYS WITH TOY GUN

In the cellar of the Reichschancellory stands a miniature cannon modeled after one of Krupp's modern giants. The barrel is about three feet long, with a silencer. Hitler, when he had time, used to delight in loading, aiming and firing this little piece himself. The targets were wooden figures of Polish, English, French, Belgian, Dutch and Russian soldiers. The Russians were painted with leering bestial faces. In time all the figures were shot to pieces.

Prominent visitors were taken to the cellar to see the cannon. When Mussolini visited Hitler, as a great mark of distinction, he was even allowed to load and shoot it and with great glee Mussolini entered himself in the record book of shooting results which was kept there.

Hitler enjoys target shooting, but his associates learned that it was not wise as a regular thing to out-score him. He became definitely miffed. Col.-Gen. Werner von Fritsch, who later died under mysterious circumstances on the Polish front, once dared to score seven bull's eyes in 12 shots on a military target range, whereas Hitler scored only one but with good secondary shots. There was an unpleasant moment, but Hitler turned the whole thing off with a laugh and said, "Well, General, after all, shooting is your business."

WALKING CHIEF EXERCISE

All of the SS men around Hitler have to be good shots. Hitler sometimes took part enthusiastically in pistol practice. One of his prize possessions was an old English pistol given to him by Unity Mitford. It is unique and worth over 2,000 marks. Besides using it for target shooting, Hitler occasionally used to carry it with him to the front. The ammunition for it ran out (He had 5,000 rounds) and he couldn't get more in Germany, but he said, "Never mind, we'll fetch it ourselves in London."

Walking has been the main form of exercise for Hitler, although in earlier years he did some gardening on the Obersalzberg at Berchtesgaden. It was a great day when radishes grown and picked by the Fuehrer were served on the table.

At one time he also had some iron dumbbells put in his bedroom and with these he exercised for 20 minutes each morning for a short period. For a brief time Hitler practiced setting-up exercises, naked, for 10 to 20 minutes at a stretch. His manservant, Walther Meyer, a former bodyguard, counted "one-two, one-two," for him.

GETS CLIP ON CHIN

Meyer once suggested that Hitler should box with him. They sparred with bare fists. Meyer clipped the chief one on the right ear which remained swollen for several days. Professor Morel, his house physician, was annoyed and alarmed but it all passed off and Hitler did nothing about it.

Finally he gave up the dumbbell workouts, and walks in the woods remained his essential exercise. He set a fast pace and took particular pleasure in making Goering, sweating and puffing in his great bulk, go along and keep up with him.

One of Hitler's great means of release and escape from the world is music. Yet, strangely enough, Hitler personally is highly unmusical. He cannot whistle or sing. Very few people know that for several years he tried to tootle a flute presented to him by the Belgian Rexist leader, De Grelle, in 1935. He never got beyond the first rudiments, although he is able to pick out simple tunes on a mouth organ.

WHERE'S SHE NOW?

One last anecdote: A woman of some prominence in Germany and an expert palmist, often had asked Hitler to let her read his palm. He finally agreed but in order to make it more sporting, stipulated that another person should stand with him behind a curtain and she should read both their palms without knowing in advance which was which. This was a few months before the beginning of the war.

Two right hands were thrust through the curtain, one of which she read quickly and without much interest. The other she examined long and exhaustively, found much interest and good in it, and finally pronounced that the owner some day would do something to set the world's tongue wagging. The curtains parted and the owner of the hand appeared. It was Rudolf Hess.

Russians Make Counter-Attack At Sevastopol

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, June 12—(AP)—After beating off a week of virtually constant German onslaughts, defenders at the Crimean naval base of Sevastopol have counter-attacked and improved some of their positions, Russian army dispatches said today.

There were no further details from the Ukraine where, a communique at midnight said, Russian forces were putting up a defensive fight against the advance of Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock's tanks and infantry east of Kharkov.

A war bulletin this morning said there had been no important changes overnight, and did not mention the Kharkov sector.

SITUATION "TENSE"

(The German high command said Von Bock's attacks in the new Kharkov offensive were successful and increasing in volume.)

Red Star said that despite local gains won by the Russian counter-attacks, the situation at Sevastopol remained "extremely tense."

"Great firmness and mobilization of efforts will be necessary for final repulse of the enemy," the army newspaper asserted.

Nearly 15,000 Germans have been killed and more than 50 tanks and 60 planes destroyed by the defenders of Sevastopol in three days, the midnight communique declared.

Commandos' Chief Visits In Ottawa

OTTAWA, June 12.—(CP)—Lord Louis Mountbatten, leader of Great Britain's famed commandos, paid a brief visit to Ottawa yesterday.

He was guest of the governor-general and Princess Alice at luncheon and left soon after by air for an undisclosed destination.

Lord Louis, who is a cousin of the king and a vice-admiral in the Royal Navy, has seen some of the hottest naval fighting in the present war. He has been in Washington recently.

It was not learned immediately whether he conferred with naval or military officials here or whether his visit was of a personal nature.

Air Vice-Marshal Harold Edwards, air officer-in-chief of the Royal Canadian Air Force overseas, and Mrs. Edwards were among guests at the luncheon at Government House.

Today's War Moves

The Germans are attacking in force both in the Kharkov region and at Sevastopol, and this may be the beginning of the expected push towards the Caucasus.

That there will be an offensive there can be little doubt. Hitler cannot withdraw now without losing the war. He must beat Russia this summer or not at all.

His odd assurance to the German people several months ago that Germany would be better equipped for another winter seems in the light of subsequent developments to have been whistling in the dark.

ANSWER OBVIOUS

If the Allies cannot develop a second front in western Europe in 1942, it is almost certain they can in 1943. The answer must be fairly obvious to Hitler.

Although Russia knows that she probably faces a severe ordeal in the summer campaign, Foreign Commissar Molotov's negotiations in London and Washington have given her a new feeling of strength, both militarily and politically.

If Russia had any doubt about the extent of British and American material aid or of Russia's position among the nations when peace comes, this has been dispelled by the agreements signed. Russia can go ahead in full confidence that she will have an equal voice in the post-war readjustment.

The extent of concrete military aid which the Allies can give the Russians this summer has not been revealed nor is it likely to be. The Washington and London statements implied that there would be a second front in 1942 but did not state so implicitly.

MOLOTOV SATISFIED

The White House announcement said merely that there was full agreement on the "urgent tasks" of creating a second front this year. However, Molotov obviously is satisfied with the nature of the Allied plans, since he is in accord with them.

The problem of a second land front in Europe this year is a troubling one. It is agreed on both sides of the Atlantic that there must not be "another Dunkirk" and that any expedition must be large enough and strong enough to accomplish its purpose.

SERIOUS OBSTACLE

The Allies have the planes and arms for such an expedition and probably enough manpower. The shortage of shipping, however, is a serious obstacle. The fleet required to transport a big land army to Europe and keep it supplied would be a severe and even dangerous strain on Allied resources. Later, when buildings steps well ahead of the rate of submarine losses, the problem can be met.

It has been suggested in London that short of an expeditionary force, a second front can be created by a combined British-United States aerial offensive on an unprecedented scale, accompanied by constant commando raids in which the attackers would strike and withdraw, much as a plane bombs and returns home.

Wider Powers Are Given Controller Of Transportation

OTTAWA, June 12.—(CP)—Authority of Transport Controller T. C. Lockwood of the munitions and supply department has been extended by order-in-council, it was disclosed last night in an extra edition of the Canada Gazette.

The order gives Mr. Lockwood wide powers to regulate railway travel by authorizing him to "limit, discontinue or cease to operate or to extend, furnish, supply or make use of any railway facilities." He may fix prices for railway services and establish schedules of rates to be charged "for the transportation of goods and persons generally."

Another section of the order authorizes the controller to prohibit designated persons from using railway facilities or to require the use of the facilities by any specified persons.

China Quarters Demand Russia Fight Japanese

By ROBERT P. MARTIN

CHUNGKING, June 12.—(BUP)—Chinese political quarters demanded today that Russia join the United Nations in the Pacific war against Japan, warning that Japanese attacks on American bases in the Aleutian islands presaged imminent thrusts against Vladivostok and Kamchatka peninsula.

While fierce fighting raged over wide areas of eastern and southern and central China, the newspaper Ta Kung Pao said Russia's Pacific neutrality was aiding the Japanese.

PLAN SURPRISE MOVE

Reliable reports have reached Chungking, the newspaper said, that the Japanese are concentrating large forces in Manchuria for a "surprise" attack on Vladivostok, Russia's important East Asia port. Some of these troops were said to have been transferred from the Philippines, Malaya and Burma.

"Russia must be brought over to the Allied side in the Pacific war," Ta Kung Pao said. "It is indeed time for the Soviet leaders to take action."

Ta Kung Pao, which reflects the views of high political quarters, maintained that Japan was attempting to eliminate "at one stroke" the threat from the northern Pacific.

If Alaska falls, the Allies will have a hard time fighting their way to the Japanese islands," it said. "These Japanese attacks on the Aleutians are a prelude to her attacks against Vladivostok and Kamchatka. If the U.S.S.R. stands aside and waits, she will be under the domination of far eastern aggression forever."

TWO ROUTES FOR ATTACK

The newspaper pointed out that the United Nations could launch an attack on Japan by two routes—from the southern bases in Australia or along a northern route from Alaska.

"Nevertheless, the northern route has two disadvantages. Pending completion of the American highway through Canada and Alaska, transportation between the United States and Alaska depends entirely upon the sea, which now is open to Japanese submarine attacks. Japan's closeness to Siberia gives her a chance to slip by the Soviet coast for an attack on Alaska."

Normal Students In B.C. Decline Salary Of $780

VANCOUVER, June 12.—(CP)—Students of the Vancouver Normal school yesterday endorsed a resolution providing that no graduating students accept any teaching appointment from any British Columbia school board at the existing minimum salary of $780 per year.

A resolution submitted to the Normal students Wednesday proposed that graduating students hold out for $900 where no salary schedule existed, or $850 minimum where there was a salary schedule established.

However, this resolution was amended to have students reject the existing $780 yearly minimum but leaves it to individual students to bargain for the proposed $900 minimum.

Exchange Liner Sailing Delayed By Jap Refusal

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—The Japanese have refused to promise safe conduct for the liner Gripsholm until June 16, the state department said yesterday, and therefore its trip to Africa with several hundred Japanese from this country has been postponed.

Also contributing to the postponement is the fact that the United States government has failed to receive from the Japanese government the list of American Nationals to be exchanged out of Japanese-occupied China.

The Gripsholm, a Swedish vessel, had been expected to sail yesterday for Portuguese East Africa.

U.S. Navy Plans To Train 2,500 Pilots Monthly

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—Chairman Carl Vinson of the House of Representatives naval committee, reported last night that the navy would be training pilots at the rate of 2,500 a month by the end of this year, as compared with 600 a month when the United States entered the war.

In a statement approved by the navy, he said that the figures were based on information obtained in an executive session from Rear Admiral J. H. Towers, chief of bureau of aeronautics.

"While I cannot divulge details of the testimony," Vinson said, "I feel free to state both as to my own view and that of the committee, that the Admiral's testimony was extremely encouraging."

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from Merrick Drug Stores or any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.

U.S. ANNOUNCES:

Russia To Get Lend-Lease Aid

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—The United States and Soviet Russia signed last night a mutual aid agreement providing for reciprocal assistance in the winning of the war and for co-operation in practical measures to "create a better world hereafter."

Similar in all essential respects to the lend-lease agreements signed Feb. 23 with Great Britain and on June 2 with China, the new Soviet agreement replaces the previous arrangements under which Russia was granted last November a non-interest-bearing loan of $1,000,000,000, followed early this year by supplemental credits of an unrevealed magnitude.

Under the original offer made by President Roosevelt and accepted by Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin, repayment of the non-interest-bearing loan was not to begin until five years after the war. Under the new agreement, signed by the Ambassador Maxim Litvinoff and Secretary of State Cordell Hull last night, the final determination of settlement terms and conditions of settlement is deferred "until the extent of the defence aid is known."

In this connection, a state department communique summarizing and interpreting the provisions of the mutual aid pact emphasizes that:

GUARANTEES AID

"The agreement reaffirms this country's determination to continue to supply in ever - increasing amounts aid to the Soviet Union in the war against the common enemy. The agreement also provides for such reciprocal aid as the union may be in a position to supply.

"But no matter how great this aid may prove to be, it will be small in comparison with the magnificent contribution of the Soviet Union's armed forces to the defeat of the common enemy."

Britain's Battle Fleet Will Fight Under Four Flags

LONDON, June 12.—(CP)—The British Home Fleet, led by the 35,000-ton flagship Duke of York, actually has become a United Nations' fleet. The great force, recently joined by a United States task force including at least one battleship, will go into action under the flags of at least four nations—the White Ensign, the Stars and Stripes, and the Pennons of Poland and The Netherlands. Presence of the Duke of York, which carried Prime Minister Churchill to the United States last December, was revealed today.

Parley To Refund Alberta's Debt Failure

Conversations Break Down When Deadlock Is Reached On Interest Rate Payment

with regard to the varying coupon rates on outstanding debenture issues, and we will recommend that some provision be considered in this regard."

Disagreement on Two Points

Generally speaking, the conference broke down over disagreement mainly on points Nos. 1 and 2.

Members of the joint Alberta Debt Refunding Committee are:

Government representatives: Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer and chairman of the committee; Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry; Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health and relief; J. F. Percival, deputy provincial treasurer.

Bondholders' representatives: Courtland Elliott, Toronto economist with A. E. Ames and Company, Ltd., Toronto, chairman of the bondholders' section of the committee; H. W. Tallock, assistant treasurer for the Prudential Life Insurance Company of America, Newark, N.J.; H. A. Howard, vice-president and general manager of the Trusts and Guarantee Company, Ltd., Calgary, who represents the Southern Alberta Bondholders' Protective Committee; and Jules E. Fortin, Toronto, secretary of the Dominion Mortgage and Investments' Association.

FULL STATEMENT

Following is the full statement issued late Thursday on behalf of the Alberta Bondholders' Committee by the bondholders' spokesmen on the Alberta Debt Refunding Committee:

Views of the government and of representatives of bondholders proved irreconcilable and refunding conversations are therefore at an end.

The Bondholders' Committee has been prepared to go a long way in recommending adjustments in order to achieve refunding of Alberta's debt and restoration of provincial credit.

Under the plan which the bondholders' committee was prepared to recommend, a basic rate of interest of 4 per cent was to be applied to the refunded bonds and the maturity of all bonds was to be extended in order to provide for orderly liquidation of the provincial debt. Ample time was to be given the province to take care of the unprovided half of the past due interest and in so doing no interest on the unpaid interest was to be charged.

RESTORE CREDIT

Early in the discussions, spokesmen for the government agreed with the bondholders' representatives that the objective of any refunding plan would be to restore provincial credit and the market value of Alberta bonds to or near par so as to enable holders who have suffered hardship as a result of the default to secure return of their principal. But restoration of provincial credit and the market value of Alberta bonds cannot be accomplished unless there is recognition on the part of the government of the obligations which the province had undertaken and of the level of interest rates prevailing on provincial bonds throughout the Dominion.

We cannot emphasize too strongly that the committee is endeavoring to protect the interests of thousands of bondholders, of whom most are small holders. Proposals by government spokesmen in regard to interest rates and other matters were such that we could not recommend their acceptance to these holders. In fact, we feel that if we did recommend them, our recommendation would be rejected by the great majority of bondholders. It would have resulted in hundreds of these small holders continuing to sacrifice their bonds at a substantial loss.

The committee entered into discussions with the government with the sincere desire to assist in removing the Alberta default. Its plan was an attempt to put Alberta's finances on a sound basis and provide for orderly retirement of the provincial debt, and at the same time give the province substantial easement in the burden of debt service as compared with the pre-default period. Furthermore, the committee was willing that holders of savings certificates be given preference in the matter of principal retirement.

PLAN IS POSSIBLE

The committee regrets that the refunding conversations have broken down. As already pointed out, it has a sincere desire to cure the Alberta default. It is more than ever convinced that a refunding plan is possible that would not involve undue sacrifices on the part of the province and would treat bondholders with equity.

In order that the public may be fully informed as to the position of both the bondholders' committee and the government we are releasing herewith an interchange of letters between the representatives of the bondholders' committee and those of the government.

(The first letter is from Treasurer Low to the bondholders' representatives.)

Edmonton, June 10th, 1942.

Gentlemen: Since yesterday we have given earnest consideration to the questions asked by Mr. Fortin. We have concluded that no one of us could possibly take the responsibility of forecasting the fiscal needs of this province for any given number of future years. Too many presently unforeseen and complicating factors enter into the calculations, in addition to the prominent and paramount consideration which is perfectly obvious, namely: that we must always limit our proposed expenditures to keep them within the expected revenues. I am handing you herewith the estimates of our expenditures for the current year. They do not represent at all what we should spend, but rather what we can spend. We are limited by the amount of money we can expect to receive without resorting to exorbitant taxation. These estimates represent the results of nearly three months of study and review of the experiences of past years. Beyond this we cannot forecast.

INTEREST RATE

I would remind you that when this committee commenced its deliberations in September of last year, it was unanimously decided that rather than attempt to measure the ability of the province to pay the contractual rate of interest on the debenture debt of the province, an endeavor should be made to effect a refunding of the debt at a rate of interest more compatible with prevailing interest rates and which would have the effect of restoring the marketability of Alberta bonds, and this approach to the problem is, I feel, indicated by the resume of our discussions held on September 18th, 1941. (See pages 7 to 9 inclusive).

I was of the opinion that we were to resume our discussions from where we left off on September 18th when Mr. Manning and I had to leave for Ottawa to attend the Tax Transfer conference.

I think the major consideration of this committee should be to determine the average coupon rate to be paid in future on Alberta bonds. From the minutes of last year's discussions I quote from page 8:

"It was stated (by a representative of the bondholders) that although its effects probably could not be immediate, it was the feeling of the bondholders' representatives that a basic 4% rate was the minimum at which the objective, namely, restoration of a price near one hundred for the province's bonds, could be accomplished. Representatives of the government expressed the view that the government of the province and the policy it had adopted were in effect a public protest against the present scale of interest rates in Alberta; that any material increase in the rate of interest now paid on the debt of the province would not only preclude the setting aside of any substantial sum for debt retirement, but would result in a curtailment of essential services to the people of the province. It was also pointed out that the suggested rate of 4% would involve an increased annual charge for interest of $1,792,121, compared with the amount now tendered. It was the considered opinion of the representatives of the government that a suggested rate of 4% could not be entertained."

To get down to serious business, what we would like to know is this:

(a) Did the opinion expressed by the representatives of the bondholders as stated constitute an offer to the government of Alberta?

(b) If so, are the bondholders' representatives prepared to say now that that offer is the best they can make?

(c) If not, are you prepared to make an offer of an average coupon rate which will be acceptable to the bondholders?

We feel that we have reached a point in our discussions where explicit answers to the above questions seem to be necessary to further progress in formulating definite proposals for refunding Alberta's debt.

Yours truly,
"S. E. Low."

Courtland Elliott, Esq.,
Chairman, Bondholders'
Representatives, Alberta Debt
Refunding Committee.

(The following letter is from the bondholders' spokesmen to Hon. Mr. Low):

Edmonton, June 10, 1942

Hon. Solon E. Low
Chairman, Alberta Deft Refunding
Committee,
Parliament Buildings,
Edmonton, Alberta.

Dear Mr. Low:

In reply to the letter you have just handed us at the opening of our conference today, we are quite prepared to answer herein the questions you raise.

In all justice we feel impelled to state at the outset that we should receive from you in like manner a clear statement of your position with respect to the necessities involved in the problem.

May we remind you that to date we have had nothing beyond a statement that the government will not consider any plan of interest payments on publicly held bonds which involves a substantially larger dollar amount than the reduced interest which is now being paid, subject only to contingent adjustments of Provincial Treasury Bills held by the Dominion government and cancellation of Alberta bonds held in the provincial sinking fund.

3% MENTIONED

This amount indicates to us a rate not higher than 3%, which rate in fact has also been mentioned on more than one occasion by government spokesmen during the course of our several meetings.

We would therefore request that you furnish us with a clear cut statement of your position.

Taking up your letter seriatim, may we briefly reply that:

(a) It was made clear to you that Mr. Fortin's questions relating to amounts available for debt services and capital expenditures, at the meeting held June 9, were not designed to establish the province's ability to pay, nor to re-inject this question as the sole basis for a refunding plan; they were, on the contrary, designed to confirm that a 4% rate was a practical objective.

(b) We adhere without reservation to the principles and objectives upon which we originally approached the problem and to which you have referred in your letter, viz: that it was our intention to establish terms for refunded bonds—first, that would achieve the restoration of the provinial credit and the stabilization of the marketability of Alberta bonds at or near par, and secondly, that should be acceptable to Alberta bondholders who, as you are aware, are widely spread throughout the world.

With these fundamental objectives in mind we now reiterate, in response to your three specific questions on the second page of your letter:

(a) Did the opinion expressed by the representatives of the bondholders as stated constitute an offer to the government of Alberta?

ANSWER IS "NO"

The answer to this question is "No". It is well known to you that the Alberta Bondholders' Committee can act only in a representative capacity for the bondholders, and that, therefore, its position must be that it can only recommend for acceptance such plan as in its opinion will achieve the objectives stated above and prove acceptable to the majority of the bondholders.

The Alberta Bondholders Committee is prepared to recommend a plan of refunding which involves three fundamental points:

(1) A 4% basic rate of interest.

(2) Recognition of past due unpaid interest, and

(3) Provision for differentials in the coupon rates on outstanding bonds to their respective maturities.

The Committee is prepared to recommend concessions that will give ample time to the Province to take care of the unprovided one-half of the past due interest, and in so doing will request no interest on the unpaid interest.

It is also prepared to consider and develop jointly with you, ways and means of taking care of the differential between the refunded rate and the contractual rates to their present maturity.

(b) If so, are the bondholders' representatives prepared to say now that offer is the best they can make?

VIEWS UNCHANGED

In reply to this question we can only reiterate that we cannot offer but can only recommend a plan and that our views remain unchanged in this respect from those set out above.

(c) If not, are you prepared to make an offer of an average coupon rate which will be acceptable to the bondholders?

In view of the foregoing, this question requires no further answer.

We have presented briefly above the conditions which in our opinion are prerequisite to a successful refunding of the Provincial debt.

Will you be good enough to advise us for the record whether these basic principles are acceptable to you. Very truly yours, (Signed) Courtland Elliott, H. W Tatlock, J. E. Fortin, H. A. Howard.

(The following letter is from the government representatives on the committee to Mr. Elliott):

Edmonton, June 11th, 1942

Courtland Elliott, Esq.,
Chairman of the Bondholders
Representatives,
Edmonton, Alberta.

Dear Mr. Elliott: The Government representatives on the Alberta Debt Refunding Committee have weighed carefully your submission of June 10th and as requested by you we herewith set out a clear statement of our position with respect to the main items involved in the problem of refunding Alberta's debt.

3½% RATE

We are prepared to recommend to the Government a plan involving an average rate of interest of 3½%. We are convinced that with the co-operation of the bondholders in adjusting our outstanding debt and in arranging satisfactorily the future debt retirement payments, we can make this possible without imposing any greater burden upon the taxpayers for debt services.

With respect to the unpaid portion of the interest, we must state that we do not see how it would be possible or practicable for the province to provide for the payment of or compensation for this amount. Since in the opinion of the Government the main concern of the individual bondholders is restoration of the capital value of their investment, we would recommend that the province set aside a fund to provide a call feature of annual redemption which would have the effect of maintaining the market price somewhere near par.

We recognize that some adjustment would be necessary with regard to the varying coupon rates on outstanding debenture issues, and we will recommend that some provision be considered in this regard.

SUBMISSION

We are not prepared to recommend the acceptance of the proposed plan as outlined in your letter of yesterday involving a 4% rate. We are, however, assured that the Government will consider our submission as set out above as a basis for a complete readjustment of the province's debenture debt.

We would ask that you place the same before your principals for their consideration.

Very truly yours, (Signed) S. E. Low, Ernest C. Manning, W. W. Cross, J. F. Percival.

Greater Pacific Defence Seen In New Command

By B. T. RICHARDSON

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, June 12—A quiet announcement from National Defence headquarters, Canada's war office, that the chief of the general staff, Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, has taken over command of Pacific area was seen today to mark the final retreat of the school of thought in high official circles that regarded the Pacific coast as a minor defence problem.

The official announcement said merely that General Stuart had taken over temporary command of the Pacific area in order to deal with organization plans arising out of expansion of army forces in that command. This move, it is understood, marks the triumph within the government of the viewpoint favoring heavy increased west coast defences and more attention to strategic problems involved in that sector.

STORM OF PROTEST

Since General Stuart himself and others were saying last winter that Pacific coast preparations were "adequate", a storm of protest has poured upon the government from press and public interested in safe-guarding British Columbia shores. Leader in the drive was the Vancouver Sun, against which security officials pressed charges and won a conviction.

Yet between the lines of announcement issued Thursday by defence headquarters may be seen the ascendancy of the demands for greater Pacific defences. A typical top-level shift has occurred in opening the way for General Stuart to take personal charge of the situation in the west. Major-General R. O. Alexander, who has been commanding officer of the Pacific command since October, 1940, has been moved to the job created in 1940 of inspector-general of central district. Major-General T. V. Anderson, an ex-chief of general staff, who was moved out of headquarters in 1940, retires from the post of inspector-general.

ADDRESSES HOUSE

Cardin Charges Quebec Betrayed By Government On Conscription Issue

By C. R. BLACKBURN

OTTAWA, June 12—(CP)—Hon. P. J. A. Cardin (Lib. Richelieu-Vercheres) in the House of Commons yesterday charged the government with a "betrayal" of the people of Quebec.

Speaking for an hour in the conscription debate, Mr. Cardin declared there had been attempts to appease and silence Quebec by promises that there would be no conscription, and to appease the rest of Canada by bringing in the conscription enabling measure.

It was Mr. Cardin's first speech in the house since he resigned his two portfolios of public works and transport last May 11, the day Prime Minister Mackenzie King introduced bill 80—repealing section 3 of the national resources mobilization act.

Repeal of section three will eliminate the barrier against conscription of men for military service overseas.

SPEECH APPLAUDED

The speech, delivered with the fire and eloquence which has characterized Mr. Cardin's oratory throughout his 31 years in the house, won applause from all parties at frequent intervals.

At its conclusion he was surrounded by congratulating members, including Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Conservative house leader Hanson.

Mr. Cardin, who spoke in English, said that by advancing this measure, the government was disregarding its word to the people of Quebec and to the country at large, without making any attempt to establish that a situation had arisen to necessitate such action.

It was the history of the 1917 conscription measure repeating itself.

"As was the case in those days—not a scintilla of evidence has been produced to show the necessity of having recourse to such a measure at the present time—not one word."

The amending bill would bring conscription for overseas but the actual operations of the act would be carried out "in secret" by order-in-council.

WON BIG PROMISE

Mr. Cardin said that in the efforts made in Quebec by himself, the late Justice Minister Lapointe and others to win that province to the war cause in the Quebec provincial election soon after the war started and in the 1940 general election, they had succeeded because they were able to promise, on the word of the Prime Minister, that there would be no conscription for overseas service.

"It took some courage," he said.

When the plebiscite came it was again necessary to use what the Prime Minister had called "those solemn pledges" regarding conscription, with the people of Quebec.

"No wonder that we did not get then the response that I myself expected, although I think I am entitled to say, I participated in that campaign at the risk of my own life."

Mr. Cardin did not add anything on this point to explain what he meant by "at the risk of my own life."

Mr. Cardin said it was "to his sorrow" that the principle of compulsory military service was being presented to the house "by the Liberal party and by my leader."

WARNS OF CONSEQUENCES

He warned each member not to be "deceived" as to the consequence of the vote to be given on the Prime Minister's bill.

"Let him not be led astray by what is being said," Mr. Cardin explained.

"It is said there is no necessity for conscription now, we do not need conscription at the present time. We only want the power to apply conscription.

"That is the line of argument which is being used very much in the Province of Quebec where I live.

"They are trying to appease public opinion down there by telling the people that, and the newspapers have been telling them that and broadcasts have been given over the past three weeks, all to this effect:

"'Do not worry, do not be afraid, you are not going to be conscripted; the law is not going to be applied. It is only going to be a gesture for the purpose of appeasing certain people in other sections of the country'."

Conscription would be the law of the land if the amendment passed, the law not only for the present government but any government that succeeded it.

It was being said that conscription was not going to be enforced, and that it was not necessary, said Mr. Cardin.

"If conscription is not necessary at the present time, why, in the name of God, apply it?

"Why interpret the vote in the plebiscite, which was not a vote on conscription, as if it had been a vote on conscription?

"If there was such an idea in our minds, why were we not frank enough to say that to the public?

"Why did we not ask the public of Canada whether they were in favor—yes or no—of conscription?

TRUST PEOPLE

"If we trust the people as we should trust them, we should not have been afraid of asking the question squarely and without in any way avoiding the issue."

Mr. Cardin said his conscience was clear in respect of the action he had taken in resigning his portfolios and he believed he was properly representing the people who sent him to parliament.

He charged that the present government, like the government in power during the First Great War, had refused to make public the number of French-Canadians who had enlisted in the Canadian forces.

It was impossible to judge the extent of Quebec participation and co-operation in the war effort without that information.

Mr. Cardin said it was only by "accident of nature" that the majority of those in the house were of the British race and the minority of the French race.

For the British it was an automatic reaction when the empire was in danger to accept the responsibility of saving it.

For those of French origin the impulse to aid the empire arose from reason and not from instincts of the blood.

SUBMIT TO MAJORITY

Mr. Cardin said he would submit to the majority in Canada on conscription, "but there is nothing before us to indicate that a majority of the electors ever said 'yes' in favor of conscription."

He expressed fear that "the government is listening to a minority which is much less important than the minority in Quebec."

He had no objection to the mobilization act even if it had been extended to compel service in the adjacent territories of Canada in the western hemisphere.

But immediately this bill was passed all those called up so far under the mobilization act would be required to serve in any part of the world.

Interest Rate Too High

Representatives of the holders of provincial bonds cannot have expected—however much they hoped so—that a settlement of the provincial debt question could be reached on the basis of 4 per cent interest for the future plus the payment of the whole amount of the unpaid interest. That the refunding conference broke down on these points is not surprising. It was bound to do so.

Four per cent on provincial bonds is a rate altogether out of line with the present rental value of money. Such a rate, coupled with the payment of interest arrears, plus interest on these arrears, would not constitute a refunding arrangement. It would be simply a debt-extending plan.

The Government members of the committee went the extreme limit when they offered 3½% interest and an arrangement by which the outstanding bonds would be brought and kept to a figure somewhere near par. To pay more than this would make refunding not worth bothering about. An offer of three per cent would have been all money is now worth.

While the conference has collapsed, the factors which brought it about continue to operate. The bondholders are now getting an average rate of 2.44 per cent on their investment, and no back interest payments. The fact that they have been offered 3½ per cent, plus compensation for interest arrears will not go unheeded by them.

The bondholder representatives, having flown their 4 per cent kite and seen it come down, may as well go back and tell their principals they should immediately accept the offer as it will never be made again.

Our Particular War

The Japanese dagger is pointed straight at Canada. The Japanese fleet and air force are concentrated in the North Pacific, manoeuvring for a second attempt either at an immediate attack upon this continent or for the capture of the Hawaiian islands, to be used as a sea base for such an attack. Tokyo has announced that land and naval forces have made landings in the Aleutian islands. If the report is not true, it indicates the intent.

This gives a new meaning to the war in the Pacific. It is no longer Britain's war, or China's war, or India's war. It is Canada's war. We stand next in line for assault, because an invasion of the United States would be possible only from land bases in Canadian territory.

Canada should not, cannot and will not expect protection from Britain. We must stand on our own, in full co-operation with the United States, and do our full share to destroy the menace by destroying the power that is thrusting at our national life. Canada cannot be safe until the military strength of Japan is smashed to pieces. That is now our particular job. It belongs to us, and there is no way to honorably avoid it. It will not be enough that the dagger be averted; the assassin who wields the dagger must be beaten and disarmed.

Those in parliament and those throughout the country who have objected to the sending of drafted men oversea have been thinking about the sending of men to Europe. They must now in candor take the new situation into account and think about sending men to Japan—when necessary—not to fight "Britain's War," but to fight for Canada's life. When the time comes to carry the war to this enemy and dispose of him on his own ground, who that professes to be a Canadian would want our Government barred from putting the whole of our trained fighting men into the arena there?

If Canada, in association with the United States and Australia, cannot—or will not try to the limit—to deal finally and completely with Japan, then we had better forget our boasted dominionism and go back to the colonial status. Parliament, when it removes clause three from the mobilization act, will empower the Government to employ the whole of our armed forces to the end of disposing forever of the Japanese threat. Is it too much to suppose that even those who object to participating in a war in Europe will approve hunting down this Axis assassin beyond the Pacific with every trained man we can muster?

He Knows Better

If Admiral Raeder ever took any stock in Tokyo's boast that United States sea power in the Pacific had been all but extinguished at Pearl Harbor, he knows better now. And he must have been more amused than convinced by the tootling of a Japanese naval spokesman that so much of these forces as survived the supposed annihilation there have been so badly crippled by the great Japanese "victories" in the Coral Sea and off Midway that they will be able to give no further assistance to Australia.

The Admiral has the best of reasons to know that the American Pacific fleet was not destroyed at Pearl Harbor, nor so reduced in strength that the minor losses it sustained in the Coral Sea and at Midway could render it impotent. For it has just been announced that a squadron of powerful United States warships joined Britain's home fleet last month and is now helping to keep watch and ward over Raeder's battleships hidden away in a Norwegian fiord. Washington would not have sent those ships to European waters if its Pacific fleet had been destroyed at Pearl Harbor or so weakened that it could not meet the Japanese on fairly even terms.

Raeder will no more believe the Tokyo sea tales than the men who invented them.

A Town Wiped Out

From Prague comes a report that Nazi vengeance has surpassed itself, in the destruction of an entire Czech town which had a population of nearly two thousand. The statement is that all the men in the town have been shot by the gestapo, all the women interned, the children placed in institutions of some sort, and the buildings completely destroyed. The ferocity with which Berlin official announcements have said the terror campaign has been carried on in the unfortunate republic leaves little chance that this report may turn out to be exaggerated and no hope at all that it may be altogether false.

The offence of the villagers is said to be that one of the men who shot Heydrich took refuge there.

If this account is substantially true, as it probably is, one must go far back into the days of barbarism to find a parallel for so brutal and essentially senseless a crime. Brutal because a whole community was punished with the utmost severity for what can at most have been the offence of a few of its inhabitants. Senseless because only a Nazi mind could suppose such action would arouse anything but deep hatred and a thirst for revenge, not only among the Czechs but throughout the world.

The German people may well tremble when they think what retribution is likely to fall upon them when the inevitable day of reckoning comes.

———V———

The city council has refused consent to the removal of any more Japanese from the coastal defence area to Edmonton. The refusal is based on the scarcity of housing in the city. This is not merely an excuse; it is a fact. There are not enough houses in Edmonton to properly accommodate the people now here, and the population is growing all the time. To permit an influx of people who are suspect, rightly or wrongly, would create conditions intolerable for others and for the migrants themselves.

Columnist Condemns Nationalistic Thinking In War

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

On the columnists' page of the New York World-Telegram, it was possible to see the outlines of a debate which, when this war is over, can become the critical battle for the world.

Dorothy Thompson

It was set off by the speech of Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles on Memorial Day. That was a most enlightened, reasonable and humane speech, foreseeing the entrance of the United States into a position of world responsibility after the war, not in the form of a new imperialism, but as a co-operator in the reorganization of a world based upon reason, realism and law.

It was a deeply civilized speech. And, like Mr. Wallace's historic utterance recently before the Free World Association, it was a move in the direction of clarifying war aims and implementing the much-too-vague Atlantic charter.

Support

Mr. Raymond Clapper and Mr. William Philip Simms supported the speech.

Mr. Pegler, however, without indulging in open attack, wrote a column which was a straight torpedoing of every war aim the administration, or any other leadership in foreign affairs has yet articulated.

And Mr. Pegler's argument was heated and instinctual. He made no appeal whatsoever to reason. He registered a violent reaction of "one hundred per cent Americanism." All who think of any sort of international order, universal or limited, are "political hopheads walking around in a dream."

Mr. Pegler went all out for the exclusion of Asiatics from American immigration, and, indeed, from allowing white immigrants citizenship! And, ". . . The United States are at war for the sole purpose of defending this country from a combination of enemies." And "this is going to be a white man's country"—excepting for the negroes already here.

International

Now, if we are to think in international terms, we must presume that Asiatics prefer to live in Asia, and that assistance in the development of Asia, along such lines as will raise the standard of living of the peoples there, must be a post-war aim of the western world, which until this century has regarded Asia too largely as a territory for exploitation.

I did not gather from Mr. Welles' speech that he was advocating unrestricted immigration into the United States.

One of the problems of politics, science, engineering and economics is to open and develop huge empty places on this globe, where human beings can live in decency. Unrestricted and laissez-faire immigration is not at all likely to be a result of this war.

What is needed is intelligent development and expansion in connection with planned immigration to new areas, taking account of the factors of climate, race, and cultures.

But Mr. Pegler, speaking immoderately, out of intense feeling, brands in his editorial everything non-American as un-American and poisonous. We have become, he says, "infected with the very poisons which produced the present condition of Europe."

By Europeans

If Mr. Pegler had stopped to think historically, he would have realized that the creation of America was a work of Europeans, and that not a single altogether unique idea has been born on American soil.

The United States started as a British colony, fought for independence, and established a new nation. The declaration of independence, the constitution, the system of law, and the mores of society, all have their roots in the culture of Europe.

America is the child of the Cromwellian British revolution and of the French revolution. Our law is based on the British common law; our spirit has imbibed the spirit of the French revolution; our school and university systems are direct descendants of British and continental systems. Without the three main props of western civilization: Christianity, rationality and organized law, there would be no America, as we know it.

Mr. Pegler is correct in saying that all the "poisons" of Europe have invaded us—both the poisons and the antidotes. And the process has worked both ways. Europe in the last generation, especially technologically, but even culturally, too, has become enormously Americanized.

"Poison"

But a European "poison," which is the prime contributing cause of this war, is imbibed by Mr. Pegler himself; in fact, he has become a "political hophead" on this extremely intoxicating and poisonous brew. That is the strong poison of nationalism.

What does Mr. Pegler think Nazism really is? It is one hundred per cent Germanism. It is the thesis that everything not German, be it Christianity, Roman law, Greek and French rationalism—the very foundations of western civilization — is "poison."

It is the elevation of the nation into a sublime and all-embracing mystique, outside of which there is no assimilable truth, and no possibility of other loyalties. And this nationalism, the most corrosive heresy of the times—nationalism irrational and mystic, going way beyond the creative fact of nationality—will, unless it is defeated and curbed, destroy the whole of civilization and culture, and drive the western peoples back into tribal primitivism.

And of all countries, the one which will suffer most will be this one, which has not a trace of tribalism in its historic development.

I do not join with those who are hitting out blindly at Mr. Pegler. I wish to plead with Mr. Pegler. I wish to beg him to think more carefully. For if he does not, he will find himself one of these days landing plop in the camp of the totalitarian nation-state where he, of all people, least desires to be.

Violence And Destruction In Hunnish Tradition

By HAROLD L. WEIR

The civilized world will gasp with horror over the behavior of the Nazis in the little Czech town of Lidice, not far from the city of Prague.

Harold L. Weir

Lidice was a thriving town of some two thousand souls, peaceful, industrious and thrifty. But it committed the unpardonable crime, so the Nazis believe, of sheltering the man who removed Hangman Heydrich from the world. And so the vengeance of Hitler fell upon it.

Today, all the men of Lidice are dead, shot by the Gestapo. All the women are in concentration camps or German brothels. All the children have been carried off to Germany to be industrial slaves—those that are old enough—in the factories of the Reich.

The town itself has been levelled to the ground. Its name has been erased from all Czechoslovakian records.

It is the will of Hitler that Lidice should vanish from the earth and be forgotten among men.

Self Betrayal

Now, in all this, the fundamental significance of the act is likely to be overlooked in the general resentment and horror it incites. We are likely to expend our critical energy in denunciation of the dreadful act without applying that faculty to an analysis of the meaning of it.

As a matter of fact, such acts of wanton and total destruction as this identify the Nazis in the world historical picture and forever give the lie to their claim that they represent a super-race destined to rule the earth by authority of their intrinsic greatness.

The Nazis say they are the most highly civilized people in the world. Actually, they are the least civilized people in the world. They are literal barbarians.

And they betray themselves as decadent barbarians, not in the cruelty of their actions—because civilization itself can be cruel—but in this flair for total destruction, this mania for wiping from the earth and resolving back into nothingness those things which displease them.

The trouble with the Nazis today is that the Hun blood and the Hun tradition, by some biological and psychological freak are dominating their natures.

The Huns of Attila are the lineal forebears of the Nazis and their spiritual coadjutors just as their Mongolian cousins, the hordes of Jenghis Khan, are their relatives and their ancestors in spirit.

There is a gruesome similarity in the methods of all three.

Attila's exploits in Europe in the fifth century were marked with blood and terror. His policy was not merely to conquer, but to destroy. He envisioned, not a Europe paying him tribute or acknowledging his sovereignty, but a Europe levelled off into a desert. Europe laid waste and desolate.

Look today at the little town of Lidice and see the work of Attila, the "scourge of God."

The passion for destruction, sheer, wanton destruction, bubbles darkly through every drop of Hunnish blood.

Recall the funeral of Jenghis Khan, Hitler's blood cousin, in Asia. Recollect how the long cortege wound for miles over the Mongolian countryside and how the escort of "honor" ruthlessly murdered every wayfarer it encountered to pay tribute to the "Lord of the Earth." Remember how a great river was diverted from its course so that a hidden grave might be dug for the despot and, afterwards, how thousands of those who helped at the burial were ruthlessly slain so that no man might know, for a certainty, where the crazed egomaniac was laid.

The whole insane ceremonial smells of Hitler and his fanatic Nazis. All alike were and are destructionists.

Principle of Evil

An eminent Russian theologian has defined the principle of evil as the substance of that chaos which existed before creation.

Thus, he says, evil operates in all created things, in man and in matter, through the constant impulse towards resolution back into disorder and chaos.

Every man and every bit of animate or inanimate matter feels this impulse of rebellion against order and law, this urge to turn backward into the dark and wild substance of nothingness that preceded creation.

This, says the Russian theologian, is the true spirit and principle of evil.

The doctrine so enunciated may present theological difficulties. I do not know. It may be metaphysically unsound. But I am not concerned with the philosophical truth of it so much as I am with the aptness with which it illustrates the mental and spiritual processes of Hitler the Hun.

He is inherently evil because he represents the evil impulse towards destruction and the obliteration of created things into primeval chaos.

Lidice speaks for him.

Retrogressive

The most grisly joke that Hitler and his Hunnish Nazis perpetrate on the world is the pretence that they are bringing humankind a "new order," that they are supermen and therefore destined to rule the world.

Actually, their order is so "new" that Attila did all of it fifteen hundred years ago—and much better than Hitler has been able to do.

The Nazis go back in biology, not to the super-species that were destined to dominate creation, but to the species that, by their own senseless violence, were destined to disappear from the earth.

The tyrannosaurus and the pterodactyl were also destructionists. Nature blotted them out.

The destiny of Hitler and his Huns, like the destiny of biology's destructionists, is not world dominion, but oblivion.

That retrospective science, in which Hitler believes so profoundly, has decreed it.

Wheelswomen Note!

FROM THE PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

Because of the revival of interest in cycling at present a contemporary has resurrected a code of manners for gentlemen cyclists which appeared in 1897. Here it is:

"In mounting, a gentleman who is accompanying a lady holds her wheel. When the end of the ride is reached, the man quickly dismounts and is at his companion's side to assist her, she in the meantime assisting herself as much as possible.

"If you have the misfortune to run down a pedestrian on the road, do not run away, but stop and give what help you can. On a path too narrow for two riders to go abreast always let the lady go first. It is always proper to speak to a wheelswoman who may be in need of assistance—humanity requires it. Of course, a gentleman will always remove his cap when making inquiries of a wheelswoman in distress.

"When coming up behind a rider going at a slower pace, you should ring your bell and swing off to the left. It's not good form to ring too violently on the bell unless an emergency requires it. Don't stop to repair your wheel on the path. And always preserve your dignity. Pay no attention to small boys or dogs—both are perfectly harmless to the average wheelman."

There you have it. And don't you like that word "wheelswoman?" It breathes the last enchantments of a well-mannered age.

The motor car has done a good deal of harm to our manners; no vehicle which one must enter and leave bent double adds to the charm of life. We hope to see modern wheelmen and wheelswomen adopt this code and, with that air of self-conscious restitude possible only to those whose manners are impeccable, go sailing down the roads about Peterborough, happily oblivious of small boys and dogs.

Plants' Lost Scent

By WILDWOOD IN THE VANCOUVER PROVINCE

As the years pass, the mystery of the musk is revived again and again. The little plant of sweet fragrance was found by David Douglas in his botanical explorations through the country of the Columbia River over a 100 years ago. He stated that not all the specimens he found had this odour and in some, the fragrance was slight.

The little yellow mimulus of hairy leaf flourished in the homes and greenhouses of Europe. Here in its native air it grew profusely in damp shady places, holding its vigor and its fragrance in the early streets of Vancouver after the wooden sidewalks were laid above its roots.

Then, about the turn of the century, growers noticed that the odor was fainter. When it was mentioned, others regarded the absence or lessening of scent, finally alarm was raised in horticultural circles, and while several reasons, none proven, were offered for its failure, appeal was made to the country of its origin, for more scented plants.

But the scent was gone from the native plants! Excursions were made on the trail Douglas took. Mountaineering men, certain they had smelt the musky odor on some of their trips, returned there without regaining the perfume. Nor has it been recovered after twenty years of watchfulness by botanical ramblers.

The least romantic of the reasons given for the disappearance of the musk fragrance was that the need for it, in the plants' economy, had passed, or perhaps the particular insect fertilizing the flower and attracted by the odor, had become extinct.

Odors are not entirely permanent in flowers. Horticulturists are busy breeding out the scent of marigolds, which many gardeners do not like.

In the development of new roses, thousands of seedlings bloom without any fragrance, some have been bright enough for acceptance by gardeners. When, however, a flower is doubled by hybridists, as in pinks, peonies and roses, the scent is usually increased.

The "improvement" of the sweet pea to the wavy-petalled type cost most of its fragrance. The scent of the "old fashioned" sweet-william is said to be diminishing. Few modern gardeners tolerate the old "nosegay" cousin of the carnation, but it did outlast the "sweet-jolins" of narrower leaf.

The loss of any one of the many fragrances of flower and leaf is to be deplored. They add a precious charm to wilderness and garden, steeping the breath of our life with pleasantness.

———V———

Jones: "Halloa, Smith! How are you? Haven't seen you in the garden for quite a time, and you never come and see the wife and me now. Why is that?"

Smith: "Well, old chap, it's not through ill-will or bad feeling or anything like that you know; only you and Mrs. Jones have borrowed so many things from me that when I see your place it makes me feel quite homesick."

Alberta District News In Brief

Teachers' Pay Talked At Meet

VERMILION.—Representatives of Holden, Killam, Vegreville, Vermilion and Wainwright school boards met in Viking this week and formed an association to work for the benefit of all the divisions of Viking zone. A constitution was adopted, subject to the approval of a convention of divisional boards to be held in Edmonton June 17.

Questions discussed arose out of a resolution passed at the general (Easter) convention of the Alberta Teachers' association regarding the raising of the minimum or basic salary of teachers as set by the Alberta School act. It was unanimously decided "that increased government grants must precede advance in teachers' salaries."

The following resolution was passed: Whereas, under existing circumstances, divisional boards cannot pay additional amounts for salaries; therefore, be it resolved that the basic salary of $840 per annum cannot be advanced."

Representatives of the Vermilion divisional board were Chairman C. E. Thompson and Trustee Leighton. H. E. Spencer, Wainwright, was chairman of the meeting and J. R. Robson of Vermilion acted as secretary.

Junior Calf Club Work Lauded By Official At Banquet Here

Tribute to the work of the Junior Beef Calf Feeding Clubs which sponsored a show and sale at the Edmonton Livestock Yards Wednesday was paid by S. H. Gandier, provincial director of youth training and junior activities, at a banquet at the Royal George hotel Wednesday night which concluded the "Achievement Day" program.

About 165 persons, including members, their parents and sale and show officials, attended the banquet at which N. N. Bentley, district agriculturist for the Edmonton-West area was toastmaster.

Clubs and leaders represented at the sale and show were C. W. Brinton, Vegreville; P. Ash, North Edmonton; J. Sinclair, Boyle; G. Carmichael, Spruce Grove; and R. McEachern, Sangudo.

LARGE INCREASE

Mr. Gandier said that this year there had been a large increase in the number of calf feeding clubs, the total now being 38 as compared to 24 yast year. In addition to these, six poultry clubs had been organized this year and there had also been an increase in the number of dairy and grain clubs, he said.

Replying on behalf of the junior exhibitors, Frank Chubb said work of the clubs was designed to improve the standard of cattle exhibited.

Production of alfalfas and clovers was urged by G. Carmichael, leader of the Spruce Grove Club, who suggested the growth of these leagues to "tie down the loose dirt." The legumes could be used to fatten calves.

R. M. Putnam, director of agricultural extension, provincial department of agriculture, said the organization of junior clubs had been undertaken for the purpose of making boys and girls better farmers than their fathers. He declared that more attention should be paid to the children and less to the product.

REPORT ON SALES

Toastmaster Bentley reported on the sales of top calves in the grand champion class.

The grand champion, paraded by J. Robinson of Boyle, went to Safeways for 28 cents a pound. This firm also purchased the reserve champion, paraded by Betty Hughes of Vegreville, at 24 cents a pound, as well as the third best calf from the North Edmonton club, paraded by William Carleton, at 17 cents a pound.

The King Edward hotel bought the fourth-place winner paraded by Gordon Ries, Spruce Grove, at 17 cents a pound.

Films shown at the banquet by the University department of extension included "The Heroes of the Atlantic," "Britain's Commandos in Action" and a wild elephant roundup. "Farm Conveniences," a comedy film, was also shown.

Hospital Is Praised For Improvements

RED DEER.—The month of May was a busy one at the Red Deer Municipal Hospital with a total of 1,416 patient-days, the highest on record. Twenty-eight babies were born at the hospital during the month. The Hospital Board has spent about $1,000 in recent weeks in new technical equipment and ward furnishings.

Dr. A. C. McGugan, provincial medical inspector of hospitals, paid a recent visit to the hospital and has written J. M. Findlay, secretary, congratulating the board on the many improvements that have been made.

Huge Army Of Caterpillars Now

* * * * * * * * *

Trees Stripped Of Leaves By Pests

* * * * * * * * *

Descends On Grande Prairie Area

GRANDE PRAIRIE—Caterpillars—hairy, brown, slimy, millions of them—have invaded the town and district. Moving in a westerly direction like an army under marching orders, they are headed for the Alaska highway and still going strong. Perhaps they hope to be in time to stem the possible Jap invasion. Or they may even be fifth columnists, for their method is as ruthless as any the Jap hordes have used.

They came with all the suddenness of a surprise attack. For though the people had been warned that such an attack was possible and even probable, they were totally unprepared, each one wishfully hoping the menace would not touch them. But one morning they awoke to find the brown army in possession of field and home.

Relentlessly the invaders raided and devastated with utter disregard for tender young lives, killing many budding beauties. No matter how many were killed by spray gun or mowed down by broomstick or trampled underfoot, they came on in undiminished numbers, leaving "scorched earth" behind. Trees, so newly green, are stripped of every vestige of leaves and stand bare and brown, like winter, a blight on the land. Lilacs are particularly favored and every lilac bush which comes within their range is soon alive with the crawling, voracious hordes. As usual, their havoc is patchy, some spots escaping and others suffering a total wreckage.

There seems little hope of relief from the pests at present.

CALMAR—R. H. "Dad" Perley was elected new manager of the Calmar ball club at a recent meeting. He succeeds M. A. Sank, who has been manager of the club for several years and who moved to Edmonton recently. Other officers elected were: captain-coach, George Blondheim; sec.-treas., Ross Kortgard.

HANNA.—The death of Josephine Griesh occurred here recently. She leaves her husband; one daughter, Mrs. John Dychuk of Hamilton, Ont.; and one grand-daughter. Funeral services were conducted in St. George's Roman Catholic church with Rev. Father Harnett officiating.

ENDIANG—The moisture which fell recently, amounting to .95 inches, has made a good penetration of the cultivated soil. This and the cool weather have benefitted the growing crops and pastures Endiang Community Club held a dance recently which was well attended. E. R. Keibel is president of the club while Albert Webber, Jr., heads the entertainment committee.

GRANDE PRAIRIE—School students have been collecting rubber salvage here placing all collected in a pile in the school yard. The pile has now reached a formidable height . . . In a handball game played between the Grande Prairie all-star team and the army, the former came out on top with a score of 18-4. Batteries for Grande Prairie were Rev. O'Donnel and Bill Boyd and for the army, M. Ferry and R. Folk. Umpire was J. Moon.

MORRIN.—At the last meeting of the Home Nursing Class in the United church, Mrs. J. Jopson, on behalf of the members, presented the nurse, Miss Dorothy Kaufman, Edmonton, with a cup and saucer as a token of appreciation of her work. Miss Kaufman took the place of Miss E. Jones, district nurse of Drumheller, who left to start Home Nursing classes at other points in the province. Miss E. M. Yeo, of Drumheller, was also present.

MILLET — Sunbeam Rebekah Lodge, with Noble Grand Mrs. S Vining in the chair, welcomed their official visitor, Sister Neuman, vice-president of the Rebekah Assembly, at a recent meeting. Three new members were initiated — Miss Phyllis Bear, Mrs. M. Charley, and Mrs. Lillian Dixon. In welcoming Sister Neuman, Sister Vining stressed the benefits to the smaller lodges due to official visits of Grand Lodge officers. Sister Neuman complimented Sunbeam Rebekah Lodge on the way their work is conducted and also paid tribute to the degree team. Visitors were also present from Wetaskiwin.

TWO HILLS.—With their Eaton cup at stake for the first time this season, the Szypenitz Senior Softball Club played Hairy Hill, beating the visitors 13-5 recently. The winners had no competition and the Hairy Hill team went scoreless for the initial five innings, scoring their five runs in the last two frames. Szypenitz has held the cup successfully for four consecutive years, ever since the cup came into circulation. Batteries—Szypenitz: Alec Ursuliak and Dave Hohol, Hairy Hill: Yurko and McGown; Basaraba. Officials: S. Ewanishaw and S. Ewasiuk.

Minute Make-Ups

Use dark blue mascara to give a softer, more alluring depth to your glance! Brush the lashes to the right, to the left, then upward. This gives a lovely fringe of color. Apply a light blue eyeshadow on the eyelids, softly blended up to the eyebrows. Blue flowers in your hair will complete a pretty picture!

Bill Cunningham's Column

NEW YORK, June 12.—(BUP)—One year ago a lanky, black-eyed Italian boy was approaching the half-way mark in his race towards an all-time baseball record. Jolting Joe DiMggio has stretched his hitting streak through 24 consecutive games, fattening his average to a corpulent .328. He was hotter than a fourth of July sunburn.

Today, the same DiMaggio is batting .263.

One year ago today another member of the New York Yankees was establishing himself as one of the great fielding second basemen of the modern generation. His name was Joe Gordon. He was a triple-distilled sensation. His batting average was .243.

Today the same Gordon is hitting .382.

The newest of the Yankees' jolting Joes is far above and beyond the DiMaggio of 1941. For he has a consecutive hitting streak of 27 games and 54 points higher in the average than DiMaggio was on the same date. Thus he sets the pace in both leagues. As well, he is probably one of the most mystified gentlemen at the ball parks. H doesn't know how he is doing it.

Pitchers All Very Obliging

"JUST call it luck," Gordon said as he rapped the bench in the Yankee dugout with his knuckles. "Just call it luck and just hope it holds up. I haven't the faintest idea of what is changed about me, except that the pitchers are throwing the ball where I'm swinging and I'm hitting where there are no fielders. As far as I know, I haven't consciously changed a thing."

Joe's case is peculiar. He has never before batted higher than .300. That mark was rung up with Oakland of the Pacific Coast League. In the majors, his best effort was a .284 with New York in 1939. His lifetime average is .275. So, at the moment, he is 111 points above the medium of his career and 82 above the most bloated record for any single year.

"I'm swinging the same way," he said with a puzzled frown. "I haven't altered my stance or shifted my timing. If there is any explanation, it is merely that I'm not hitting as many fly balls. In the Yankee Stadium a fly ball doesn't mean much because you have to hit it a mile or you are an easy out. This year, I'm knocking out more grounders.

"Just Swing And The Ball Is There"

"WHY am I knocking more grounders? You tell me! Outside of using a few different bats, I don't know. As for the pitchers, well, it may sound like bragging—it really isn't—but none of them have been really tough. I just swing and the ball is there. As long as it keeps happening this way I don't intend to ask myself any questions."

There are many confused theories regarding Gordon's choices of bats. Normally, he prefers a light and long model—anywhere from two to four ounces shy of the average. This season he has been mixing them up.

As he sat in the sun before the opening of the Yank-Detroit series, Joe wasn't inclined to talk about streaks, averages or subjects even remotely connected with the fabulous possibilities of his current spree. He preferred to discuss proven facts rather than potentialities. Even more so, he preferred to talk golf—in which he shoots between 85 and 95.

Dickey the Other Sparkplug

THE other Yanks are letting well enough alone, too. Gordon and the statuesque William Malcolm Dickey, of the catching Dickeys, are sparking up most of the power for the awesome McCarthy machine and no questions are being asked. With DiMaggio in a slump, the boys are extremely grateful for Gordon's condition. Too, they are hopeful it is contagious.

Although the stream-lined California youth who entered baseball via the University of Oregon has strung together hits in 27 straight games, any predictions that he will eclipse the DiMaggio streak of 56 are now completely premature. However, there are two schools of thought on that engrossing subject.

The first holds that Gordon is a happy party to one of those rare spells in which a batter can do nothing wrong and that some day he will come back to earth with a painful thud. The other dissents, but vigorously, claiming Joe was destined to be an exceptional hitter from the beginning and now has found the key to the place reserved for him among the really great hitters.

Watch for chapter two next month.

Yanks Lose Both Dickey And Rosar Through Mishaps

NEW YORK, June 12. — (AP) — New York Yankees Thursday lost the services of their second catcher in two days through an injury to Warren (Buddy) Rosar in the second inning of a game with Detroit Tigers.

Rosar sprained a muscle on the inside of his left leg while running to second base and had to be helped off the field.

Wednesday, Bill Dickey, the veteran receiver, was struck on his right foot by a foul tip from his own bat during batting practice and for two or three days. Dickey was not in uniform yesterday.

both catchers may be out of action

As a result Ed Kearsen, who was recalled this spring from the Yanks' Kansas City farm, made his debut in major league competition when the Tigers came to bat in the third inning.

The game had to be called because of weather, however, before the Yankees came to bat in their half of the third.

The Tigers were leading 2-1 at the time with two lefthanders, Hal Newhouser and Vernon Gomez, on the mound.

EIGHT PAIRS OF PROS IN ROUND ROBIN

Little And Mangrum Lead Best-Ball Golf

Nelson - Thomson Eight Under Par

TOLEDO, O., June 12.—(AP)—Lawson Little's putter was the best club in the business yesterday as the "grand slam" amateur king of golf in 1934-35 scored seven birdies in the opening round of the eighth annual Inverness invitational best-ball matches.

The 1940 United States Open champion, with the aid of two birdies by partner Lloyd Mangrum, came home with a best-ball count of 62, nine under par, to take a one-up victory over Byron Nelson, host pro, and long-hitting Jimmy Thomson.

The Nelson-Thomson 63 was the second best score of the day among the eight pairs of professionals.

Results of the day's opening round in the race for $7,650 in cash and war bonds, with best-ball scores:

Ben Hogan and Jim Demaret (65), four up on E. J. (Dutch) Harrison and Denny Shute (69).

Henry Picard and Sam Byrd (67), two up on German Keiser and Chandler Harper (69).

Little and Mangrum (62), one up on Nelson and Thomson (63).

Horton Smith and Chick Harbert (67), even with Jimmy Hines and Herman Barron (67).

Thus Hogan and Demaret, the transplanted Texans who won first prize a year ago were in front in the race for this season's top award of $2,150. However, in this morning's round the leaders must face the second-place Picard-Byrd duo, a match which is certain to scramble the standings.

Oaks Today, Derby Saturday

King George's Horses Have Chance Make Racing History

NEWMARKET, Eng., June 12. — (CP Cable) — The King's horses and the King's men—his trainer and jockey—were one-sided betting choices last night to make racing history by winning both the Oaks today and the Derby tomorrow.

No royal three-year-olds ever have hit this double in one year, but in the filly Sun Chariot, beaten only once in her career, and the colt Big Game, which never has been defeated, the King is favored to do it for the first time.

Already this pair has won two of the season's top classics for three-year-olds. Big Game took the Two-Thousand Guineas and Sun Chariot the One-Thousand Guineas, over the same Newmarket course a month ago.

And last night, Britons were putting their shillings on His Majesty to sweep the big four for the first time in British racing. He not only has the horses, but also the trainer, for Fred Darling has won seven previous derbies. What's more, Jockey Gordon Richards is the leading candidate for riding honors again.

The likelihood is for a field of a dozen in the Oaks and 13 in the Derby, both over the mile-and-a-half route. The Oaks field was cut yesterday through withdrawal of Lady Derby's Light of Day.

Chief threats for Big Game in the Derby are the Earl of Derby's Watling Street, ridden by last year's jockey champion, Harry Wragg, and Lord Rosebery's Hyperides. Sun Chariot is eligible for both races and if she gallops to an easy victory in the Oaks, Trainer Darling may send her right back in the Derby.

Although war restrictions on transportation and lack of accommodations in this town will reduce the crowds from pre-war levels, it is expected the stands will be jammed.

The King through pressure of wartime work has not seen his horses run this season and it is considered unlikely that he will.

The Derby is the only major turf event that Richards, Britain's champion jockey in 13 seasons, has never won.

A temperamental lady, Sun Chariot remains a Derby entry but turf circles hold the belief she will run only in the Oaks, an event restricted to fillies. In that race Lord Glenely's Perfect Peace is expected to furnish the stiffest opposition as she did in the One Thousand Guineas.

Vagrancy Wins Delaware Oaks

STANTON, Del., June 12—(AP)—Belair Stud's Vagrancy drove to a nose victory over Joseph E. Widener's Waygal in the sixth running of the $7,500 Delaware Oaks at Delaware Park Thursday in one of the greatest stretch duels ever seen at the track.

The two stout-hearted fillies raced as a team from the three-sixteenths pole to the end of the mile and a furlong test, with a photo needed to decide the winner.

Calumet Farm's Bostoff, the favorite, finished third, four lengths back.

It was the third Oaks triumph for Vagrancy, who also won the renewals of the Pimlico and Coaching Club American Oaks, and moved her to the top of the three-year-old fillies division.

A close second choice to Bostoff, Vagrancy paid $5.90 for $2 and was timed in 1:54 flat.

Alsab Out Of Training For Month Through Injury

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Al Sabath's colt, Alsab, was found Thursday to have suffered a leg injury and will be unable to do any racing for a month.

Trainer Sarge Swenke said the injury was a "blind splint" on Alsab's foreleg and that the colt was suffering from this ailment when he finished second to Shut Out in the Belmont Stakes last Saturday.

A splint ailment is a bony growth on the side of the splint bone of the foreleg and when it is blind it can only be discovered by X-ray.

The injury will keep Alsab out of the $25,000 Dwyer Stakes at Aqueduct, June 20 and probably the $25,000 Yankee Handicap at Suffolk Downs July 4.

Unless unforeseen developments occur, he may be ready to go in the $50,000 Arlington classic at Chicago July 25 and the $50,000 American Derby at Chicago's Washington Park Aug. 29.

Swenke said it will require several days to "cool out" Alsab's leg before the splint can be fired.

Junior Players Will Be Prominent

U. S. Tennis Tournament Program To Go Ahead Despite All Handicaps

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—In spite of shortages of everything from gasoline to gate attractions, United States tennis officials are looking ahead to a 1942 tournament season almost as big as usual and a lot more interesting.

They also point with some pride to the fact that the kids, recent graduates of the junior development program carried on for several years by the United States Lawn Tennis association, are the ones who will make it that way.

Since Dec. 7 tennis has lost practically a whole generation of established players as the war took most of the group between 20 and 30 years old off the courts. Of last year's first 10 men, only three still are available and two of them won't be playing often. Even such older players as Wilmer Allison and J. Gilbert Hall are in the army.

The shortage of star players, rather than of equipment, appears to be the biggest threat to tournament tennis. Officials were far-sighted enough to earmark plenty of tennis balls for tournament play.

Survivors from last year's top flight of stars, besides Frank Kovacs and Bobby Riggs, who turned pro, are Frankie Parker, Ted Schroeder and Billy Talbert. The women's division, of course, won't be changed much except that the champion, Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke, isn't expected to play through the season.

Alternative For Night Baseball

JERSEY CITY, N.J., June 12—(AP)—The management of the Jersey City International League baseball club found a solution Thursday to army dimout orders banning night baseball, and it received the approval of Leonard Dreyfuss, state director of civilian defence.

Charles Stoneham, secretary of the Little Giants, announced the club will play Montreal Royals at Roosevelt Stadium tonight in what he described as a "combination twilight-night game." The contest will start at 7:30 p.m. E.D.T. and teams will have until 9:24 p.m. to complete it.

Mickey Cochrane Chooses Team For Benefit Game

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—Lieut. Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane, manager of the Service All-Stars, has chosen 13 soldiers and 10 sailors to make up his team for the benefit game at Cleveland July 7 against the winner of the annual American League-National League all-star contest.

Furthermore, Manager Mickey is serious about winning the Cleveland classic. He has asked that his players be relieved of their military duties in time to report to him at the Great Lakes naval training station 10 days before the game for hard practice.

It is a powerful squad that Cochrane has picked, comprising the cream of big league talent that has answered the colors—Bobby Feller, Hank Greenberg, Cecil Travis, Don Padgett, Johnny Rigney and the others.

As his coaches Cochrane named Hank Gowdy of the Cincinnati Reds, and George Earnshaw, former great pitcher with the Philadelphia Athletics and other clubs, now in the navy.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—A four-run uprising in the ninth inning brought Cleveland Indians an 8-6 victory over Washington yesterday and a sweep of the three-game American League series.

Trailing by two runs going into the final frame, the Tribesmen produced their four runs on hits by Oris Hockett, Jeff Heath and Les Fleming, two walks, an outfield fly and a passed ball.

Eastwood Girls Beat McCauley For Softball Shield

Eastwood intermediate girls won the shield for interschool softball competition by defeating McCauley girls 34-5 at the McCauley school diamond Monday. This game concludes the schedule of games for intermediate school girls which started early in May.

McCauley, last year's champions, just could not get started, and from the beginning of the game the going was easy for Eastwood. The McCauley team were below their usual form throughout the game.

A feature of the game was the work of the outfielders. Sylvia Kolson, of McCauley made two remarkable catches in centre-field and Margaret Joseph of Eastwood made a very spectacular catch.

Eastwood—M. Joseph cf, L. Krosko ss, O. Panas 2b, E. Buechner c, J. Bodnar 3b, M. McLean ss, R. Littlechilds rf, A. Sckychoski lf, B. Hall p, J. Derbyshire 1b, N. Tough p, C. Wakel 2b, J. Vanderheide p.

McCauley — Margaret Royce, Anne Goyan, Sylvia Kolson, Louise Gibbons, Bella Riddle, Ilene Kennedy, Anna Nohos, Pearl Marceniuk, Rosie Slupsky, Ruth Summersgill, Wynona Hodgins.

Umpires—R. L. Barson and A. E. Thornton.

Sports . . . . Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—If the All-service vs. All Stars ball game at Cleveland next month doesn't shatter the municipal stadium record of 80,000 attendance, Lieut. Mickey Cochrane, U.S.N., will be sadly disappointed . . . And so will a lot of others . . . Mickey reported the other day that the soldiers and sailors and marines aren't expecting to lose to the big leaguers and he hinted the search for good players might even go so far as to bring Mickey Harris, the former Red Sox flinger, back from the Canal Zone . . . The National leaguers haven't begun yet to whoop it up for the regular all-star game here, mainly because the managers's votes won't all be in for a couple of weeks, but a look at the batting averages leaves the idea that the national might field a 40-per cent infield—catchers Blimp Phelps, Mickey Owen, Schnozz Lombardi and Ray Lamanno, each playing on a dime.

Correspondents' corner.

Byron Hollingsworth, of the Tampa Times sends the sad news that the Palma Ceia club, which has been giving away free tees for 10 years, has abolished the practice because of the scarcity of those little pegs.

Castilloux May Fight Sam Angott

TORONTO, June 12.—(CP)—It appears that not many people delieved Dave Castilloux when he announced from the midst of R.C.A.F. training last week that he was retiring from the ring and vacating his Canadian lightweight and welterweight championships.

Montrealers are talking now of a big benefit fight show in mid-July with Castilloux meeting Sammy (world lightweight titlist), Harry Hurst vs. Boom Boom Mancini (wonder what his mother calls him?), Maxie Berger vs. A. N. Other (an all-round athlete) and Sammy Jacobs vs. Angelo Callura.

Junior Baseball

Canadians and Maple Leafs will play a regular scheduled game in the Edmonton Junior Baseball League at Renfrew park commencing at 7 o'clock tonight.

This will be the first clash between these two clubs this season and both will be out looking for a win—Canadians to keep within striking distance of the loop-leading Henry Singer squad and the Leafs to mark up that initial victory.

WATER is Good Whisky's perfect companion
A good companion allows a friend to express himself freely. That is why water is the perfect companion of good whisky. It allows whisky to tell its own story.
The Seagram Canadian Whiskies are distilled, aged and blended to meet the water test. They are of such exquisite flavour that men who know good whiskies refuse to mix with them anything other than plain or sparkling water.
It is this delightful and exclusive smoothness that has caused the Seagram whiskies to outsell all others on the American continent.

Grain Exchange Nearly Deserted

WINNIPEG, June 12—(CP)—July wheat future failed to move from its pegged level of 80⅜ cents a bushel during a listless session on Winnipeg grain exchange today.

The wheat pit was deserted most of the session with a few minor purchases providing the bulk of business in early dealings.

Traders reported an estimated 200,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been sold overnight for export to Portugal.

Advertising Has Valuable Part In War Effort

Advertising, through its services in wartime, is beginning to be recognized as the actual spear point of propaganda. Government use of advertising both in England and Canada had revealed it as a force for action, whereas propaganda, in many instances, only creates reaction.

Advertising gives a message, persuades action and makes that action continuous. This was a key thought in an address on "Wartime Advertising" given by Albert Jarvis of the James Fisher Company Limited, before the Industrial Advertising association of Ontario.

In England, the British government had found definitely that newspapers, magazines, periodical and poster advertising brought quicker public co-operation for war activities than would have been possible without it. In Canada too, the change-over from peace to wartime habits had been "cushioned" and accelerated by government advertising in all types of advertising media.

CUSHION PUBLIC

But this war has also shown that advertising has valuable war functions to perform in the commercial and industrial fields. Firms who supply our war industries with equipment or who are forced to cushion the public against the need for doing without products or accepting substitutes, are using advertising to do so. In the machine and processing industries, for instance, advertisers have been able to obtain quicker acceptance of modern equipment in large plants as well as small through advertising their advantages. This acceptance of better equipment by war industries can be continued through advertising.

In England during the last war, when households were forced to do without the habitual comforts of life, mental depression came as each restriction arose, because there was nothing to break the shocks in daily life. The judicious use of advertising has enabled restrictions to be placed on the North American home practically without impairing public confidence.

One can ask this question, "Would the change-over from peace to wartime economy and production have been so satisfactorily achieved without the power of constructive advertising, both in the consumer and industrial fields," said Mr. Jarvis.

The advertising profession can now, for the first time, look at its own business without being hampered by a traditional outlook which has grown up in the last seventy-five years. We have tended to regard advertising as something wholly and completely a "selling force" in commerce. Advertising is indeed a "sales force" in other ways as well as the actual passing of goods from manufacturers to consumers. I dare to say that in the next 50 years we shall find advertising being used to sell ideas to the masses, or sections of the masses, in ways unheard of today.

INSTANT EFFECT

In the 1830's there occurred in England an event which showed how potent advertising could be. A group of parliamentary and aristocratic circles favored a re-opening of the Napoleonic wars with France. The Duke of Wellington was being "used" by the group. War seemed very sure when, overnight, Londoners found hundreds of small posters hastily placarded and bearing the slogan "To Stop the Duke, Go For Gold." A small group of rationalists, knowing that if the public went to the Bank of England to demand gold for their securities, no war would be possible, took this advertising action with instant effect.

Advertising will always be a necessary part of public life. It will remain a most potent medium for those whose business it is to influence public actions and reactions, either for profit or for causes.

BLACKMORE'S PLEA

Life-Long Financial Aid, State Medical Care For All Servicemen Advocated

OTTAWA, June 12.—(CP)—Every man in the fighting forces should be guaranteed $50 a month for life and $50 monthly should also be guaranteed to his wife for the rest of her life, whether her husband lived or died, New Democracy Leader Blackmore told the House of Commons yesterday.

He spoke in debate on the amendment to the National Resources Mobilization Act which would permit the government to send men called for compulsory military service to territory beyond Canada if this were considered necessary.

Mr. Blackmore said a "liberal allowance" should be granted for each child born to men in the service, with the first payment at birth and continuing on a monthly basis until the child reaches 16 years of age.

State hospitalization, medical care and dental care should be provided. Housing, fuel and lighting should be assured and educational facilities should be available for each child.

Mr. Blackmore said the government had failed to make use of the natural resources of the country for the war effort.

"In the face of palpably and obviously existing facts, the Prime Minister's fervent and enthusiastic and almost rapturous or even ecstatic effusions claiming that his government has accomplished complete mobilization of Canada's resources appear merely gaudy and flamboyant twaddle, hollow, insubstantial and deceptive," said Mr. Blackmore.

The Social Credit movement had advocated complete mobilisation of Canadian resources in peace and war, but the government had failed to mobilize these resources despite the power given to it to do so, under the National Resources Mobilization Act.

Land resources were far from being utilized. In 1941, 6,011,060 acres of wheat land had lain idle in summerfallow and $24,044,080 had been paid from the dominion treasury, to keep it idle, in the form of wheat acreage reduction payments.

GASOLINE SUPPLY

Dr. E. H. Boomer of the University of Alberta had estimated that 160,894,110,000,000 gallons of gasoline could be taken from Alberta coal deposits but there had been no development in this respect.

Vast areas of iron ore had hardly been touched and production of sugar, alcohol and other products was possible in far larger measure.

Mr. Blackmore said human resources had been mobilized in "the most wasteful manner."

"The tremendous spare-time energy of the people has been largely wasted," he added. "There is a man in the west who is able to do all his work on a railway job and, in addition, with the assistance of his wife, handle three-quarters of a section of land.

"A teacher conducts a school and also operates a dairy, has a substantial production of hogs and other farm products."

Provision of proper prices would encourage people to enlarge their spare-time activities to a useful purpose. Women on farms would increase the production of poultry and other products if the price paid were profitable.

"Even office girls could raise fur-bearing animals on land on the outskirts of cities," Mr. Blackmore said.

MANY UNEMPLOYED

On May 31, 31,240 had been registered at employment offices as without work and it was estimated that if all the figures were known, between 100,000 and 150,000 men and women in Canada now were without employment.

The failure was not due to lack of desire to achieve objectives on the part of the government or the country, Mr. Blackmore said.

"The government has failed and will continue to fail as long as it worships at the shrine of the present debt - money financial system," Mr. Blackmore said.

"The government must make money the servant—not the master—in Canada's economic household."

The government had ceased "to sacrifice at the altar of gold" and it now should renounce with equal wisdom and courage the "worship of the false goddess of debt."

MOBILIZE ALL

Every able-bodied man and woman in Canada could be mobilized and stimulated and motivated to any desirable kind or degree of activity by credits, markets, and prices or wages. Adequate credit to industry would encourage immediately a vast increase in the production of gasoline, steel, coal, alcohol, sugar, fruit, lumber and other products.

Adequate credit to farmers and other primary producers would stimulate the production of meats, fish and animal production of all kinds.

Credits to students would encourage the youth of Canada to strive towards greater efficiency. The credits should be made available at low interest rates and for a long term.

Markets for Canadian products would give reassurance of security and would provide work for people of all ages. Guarantees of markets three years from now would stimulate production.

Prices should be subsidized if this were necessary to guarantee the cost of production, plus a sufficient profit to allow producers to make a good living for a family. Prices must be discounted to consumers if this were necessary.

Mr. Blackmore said wages must be subsidized if this were necessary to guarantee a good living for a family and make savings possible. Provision should be made so that increased wages would not result in price increases and inflation.

Wage increases might be given in the form of war savings certificates or bonds where the credits were not needed immediately for the family living expenses.

The house should consider the reason for there being a waiting list of men seeking to enter the air force and the navy but no waiting list for the army. There should be steps to remove the causes of hesitancy in respect to joining the army.

If necessary, industry could be controlled through the price of its products, the price of its raw materials, freight rates, markets, contracts, lines of credits, bonuses or remission of taxes, Mr. Blackmore said.

If these controls were not sufficient then industry could be required to sell to the government and might be controlled by punishment.

Pension Restored

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(CP)—President Roosevelt signed yesterday a bill restoring to $40 monthly the pension payable to First Great War veterans suffering from permanent total non-service-connected disability. The original $40 rate had been cut to $30 under the 1933 Economy Act.

Crops Are Good Report Reveals

WINNIPEG, June 12.—Satisfactory growth of all crops as the result of warmer weather is reported generally in western provinces with wheat averaging well over six inches in height. Moisture conditions are good for the most part with relatively small areas only reporting urgent need of rain, according to the weekly crop report of the department of agriculture, C.N.R.

In Manitoba good growing weather with adequate moisture has promoted very rapid growth.

Moisture conditions remain satisfactory in southern Saskatchewan. In central Saskatchewan the moisture situation is only fair and immediate rains would be very welcome. Warmer weather has greatly improved growth in northern Saskatchewan and the present outlook is satisfactory.

In southern Alberta the early sown wheat is making good progress as a result of continued warm weather with scattered light showers. Grasshoppers are appearing at some points and poison is being distributed. Further moisture needed in immediate future.

In northern Alberta all grains are making good progress with moisture conditions satisfactory. No damage from any source.

Budget Expected Down By June 25

OTTAWA, June 12. — (CP) — Finance Minister Ilsley may bring down his budget June 18 to 25, it was learned in well-informed circles yesterday. It has been a general custom for finance ministers to make their budget speeches on Thursdays.

Mr. Ilsley probably will inform the house of commons several days in advance of the date of budget day. It has been greatly delayed this year because he wished to get the $2,000,000,000 war appropriation bill and the $750,000,000 loan bill through parliament first.

Present plans call for both these measures receiving royal assent in the senate chamber today, and this leaves the minister's desk clear to prepare the budget. It is understood he will bring it down as soon as it is ready regardless of whether the debate on conscription, now in progress in the Commons, has been concluded.

Beef Shortage Problem Solved Taggart States

WOODSTOCK, Ont., June 12.—(CP)—Hon. J. G. Taggart, food administrator in the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, told 5,000 farmers here yesterday that "we have evolved a plan—the details are not available as yet—to solve the beef situation."

Mr. Taggart told the meeting, sponsored annually by the Ontario Milk Producers' Association and the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, that the plan "is designed to maintain a satisfactory Canadian market and at the same time maintain our export trade."

"The only thing I can ask is that you farmers give us your full support. We will try our utmost to justify your confidence, while there is no farmer on the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, agriculture is constantly being consulted.

EXPLAINS SHORTAGE

"The present meat shortage in Canada is quite explainable. England gets her requirements. The United States still gets her normal supply. And the increased requirements from Britain forces us to conserve here in Canada."

He reviewed the farm labor shortage and said the prices of milk, cheese and butter are higher than they had been for many years. Price control and curtailment of non-essential production were necessary.

"'Why ration?' you might ask. The answer is simple. We have 500,000,000 bushels of wheat. This is enough to supply Canada normally for about 10 years. But today we have other obligations. Great Britain needs our products—including wheat and bacon—in an endless stream.

"This year alone we will ship 8,000,000 hogs to Britain. Our own needs here will see a consumption of only 2,500,000 hogs. So a little simple arithmetic will tell you why we must conserve. We may even be asked to raise our output to England. If we are, I feel that we can meet their demands."

CITY ORGANIZATION IS FORMED

Independent In By-Election Forecast

Executive Committee Is Instructed To Arrange For Nominating Meeting

Nomination of an Independent candidate to contest the by-election to fill the vacancy in the Alberta legislature was forecast at a meeting of supporters of the Independent Citizens' Association of Alberta at the Corona hotel Thursday night. About 50 persons attended.

The vacancy was created by the recent death of D. M. Duggan, M.L.A., Independent, Edmonton.

Preliminary organization of an Edmonton constituency branch of the association was undertaken at the meeting which was presided over by J. Percy Page, M.L.A., Independent, Edmonton, vice-president of the association.

An executive committee of 11 members was endorsed by the meeting, which instructed the committee to name its officers and also empowered it to add to its numbers. In this connection it was suggested that the committee consist of from 20 to 25 members.

NOMINATING CONVENTION

On a motion by Ald. J. H. Ogilvie, the committee was instructed to decide how and when a nominating convention will be held. The holding of primaries was suggested, as well as an open nominating convention, but no decision was arrived at by the meeting on the method of naming a candidate.

Members of the executive committee named Thursday are: Mrs. John H. Thorogood, Miss Hilda Whittaker, J. Percy Page, M.L.A., J. H. Julien, E. W. S. Kane, G. W. Auxier, E. H. Ayling, Harvey Harrison, R. H. Settle, Blair Paterson, Hales Ross.

The nominating committee that submitted the list of executive members which was unanimously adopted was composed of L. Y. Cairns, K.C., W. Kelly Porter, Percy Herring and C. H. Chapman.

John Dower was also named to the executive committee but asked that his name be withdrawn due to pressure of other activities.

The meeting applauded a statement by Chairman Page that at a recent Calgary meeting of the association the suggestion had been made that the Independent candidate named to contest the by-election "should remain an Independent."

Arthur G. Baalim, Lethbridge, president of the association, was unable to attend the meeting, but forwarded the following wire which was read: "Best wishes for your meeting. I feel we have two jobs to do. We must win the war and we must get Alberta back on

Repair Workers Will Discuss Organization

A mass meeting of workers of Aircraft Repair depot here will meet at the Memorial hall at 3:00 p.m. Sunday to discuss organization plans, it was announced Friday by Carl E. Berg, general organizer and representative of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

The organization meeting is called under the authority of the International Association of Machinists, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor and the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Speakers at the meeting will be D. S. Lyons, Montreal, international vice-president of the International Association of Machinists; Mr. Berg, Alfred Farmilo, president, Alberta Federation of Labor, and Ald. Sidney Parsons, president, Edmonton Trades and Labor Council.

It is understood that the management of the Aircraft Repair depot is co-operating to the limit with its employees in the organization move, and have posted notices throughout the plant intimating that the management is in favor of the unionization of this plant by the International Association of Machinists.

Air Cadets Due Play Big Role National Life

Destined to play a useful part in achieving security and insuring progress in war or peace, the Air Cadet League of Canada is providing varied and useful training for 'teen age boys.

In Edmonton alone there are enrolled 400 boys of more than and under 18 years old, taking detailed training under the league's program.

It is anticipated, officials stated, that approximately 400 more boys will be enrolled in mid-August for the next series of classes which will commence in the fall.

Of the present enrolment, most of the boys are now 17 years old and it is expected that the majority of them will transfer directly to the Royal Canadian Air Force for active service.

THE OBJECT

The Air Cadet program fits the boys for the best accomplishments in whatever field of service, armed or civilian they may enter during

Lighter Uniforms For Police Force

City police will receive lighter cloth uniforms this year, Chief Constable A. G. Shute stated Thursday.

When asked to comment on an item from Vancouver regarding the coast city's decision to equip its forces with a lighter tunic for the summer, Chief Shute stated that a similar move had been under consideration here for some years, but in the interests of economy and in view of the difficulty in obtaining the heavier serge, it was decided to moderate slightly by providing a lighter serge suit that will still be suitable for all seasons of the year.

He also stated that commencing this year the old suits will be worn slightly more than a year to work towards a gradual extension of length of service from one year to 18 months.

Varied Cases Tried City Police Court

Fines and jail sentences were imposed upon law breakers who appeared before Police Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C., Friday afternoon.

Two young men, Irvin Thompson of New Westminster, B.C., and Edward Kaye of Regina, received sentences of six weeks and one month, respectively, when they appeared for sentence. They pleaded guilty to vagrancy charges last week.

Edward Longmore was fined $50 and costs and given an option of two months in jail, after pleading guilty to a charge of drunkenness.

Violet LeRoy, charged with vagrancy, was fined $25 and costs, on condition that she accept a job outside the city and stay off the city streets. Magistrate Millar warned her that another appearance in court would mean a jail sentence without the option of a fine.

Karl Buss, Edmonton, was fined $5 and costs for driving past a car that had stopped to permit a pedestrian to go by. He was charged with dangerous driving.

Mortgage Man Urges Farmers To Pay Debts

The best advice that can be given to farmers and others who are now enjoying higher incomes is that they use as much of the increase as possible to pay off debts, A. A. McNab, president of the Alberta Mortgage Loans Association, told the annual meeting of that organization, at the Macdonald hotel Friday.

In this connection he pointed out that the United States government, as part of its anti-inflationary program, is encouraging the paying off of debts, mortgages and other obligations.

Referring to the fact that some rather "amazing characteristics" are attributed to insurance, trust and loan companies, Mr. McNab devoted some time "to setting the record straight".

"Mortgage credit," he said, "has opened the road to land and home ownership to a host of Canadians who, without credit, would not have become property owners."

DENIES SUGGESTION

As to a recent suggestion that a 6 per cent rate on farm mortgages is usurious, Mr. McNab stated there is no foundation for such a charge. "The Alberta government charges six per cent on some of its treasury branch loans. The Canadian Farm Loan Board, an agency of the Dominion government, which secures its funds at a lower cost than do insurance, trust and loan companies, is presently making farm loans at five per cent. If a six per cent rate charged by private lenders is usurious, then a five per cent rate by a public lender is also usurious."

In referring to a proposal for adjustment of farm debts on a 3% basis, he stated that such a rate on farm mortgages "is uneconomic. Private lenders would not be interested in making mortgage loans at such a rate. In fact, they would be foolish to do so. They could get a much better return by investing in Dominion of Canada bonds since the expense factor would be much lower than in the case of mortgage loans. Furthermore, the risk of loss would be very much less. One might also ask how loan companies could continue to pay 3% and more on debentures if the rate on their mortgages was only 3%. Interest receipts would not be sufficient to pay interest, let alone to take care of expenses and provide for losses."

DEALS WITH SITUATION

"It has been argued that farm debts should be cut if prices of farm products decline. By the same line of reasoning the amount of the debt should be increased if farm prices rise. Yet, no one has suggested that persons who bought farms or borrowed funds in 1933 and 1935 should be requested to pay more," he said.

"There are also some people who advocate that a share of the crop be accepted in full payment in years of low yields and that in years of high yields any excess over the annual interest payment should be applied to principal. In other words the lender is asked to share the losses and to forego any share of the gains. This is like asking a man to play a coin-tossing game with heads I win, tails you lose as the rules. Such a game is not likely to attract many players."

Decision Is Reserved On Debt Law Act

Judgment was reserved Thursday by the Alberta court of appeal in the reference made by the provincial government to determine whether the Legal Proceedings Suspension act, 1942, was ultra vires the legislature of the province of Alberta either in whole or in part.

H. J. Wilson, K.C., presenting the argument for the attorney-general's department, submitted the act was wholly intra-vires the legislature, and that it applied to all debts specifically covered by the provisions of the Debt Adjustment act, 1937, whether the debts related to interest or matters over which the dominion parliament had control such as promissory notes, and bills of exchange, and furthermore that it applied equally to debts payable to corporations or others outside the province.

TEMPORARY MEASURE

The act, he said, imposed a temporary legislative moratorium on certain debts as defined in the Debt Adjustment act in order to meet an emergent situation. It was passed to avoid confusion as to the ultimate rights of creditors and debtors and to preserve these rights pending the determination by the judicial committee of the privy council of the constitutional validity of the Debt Adjustment act.

He emphasized that the act was a legislative moratorium for a very limited period, and for a

Getting Around

with Jack DeLong

The mutual assistance pacts between Britain and Russia and between the United States and Russia, with added commitments for post-war reconstruction, are without doubt the greatest diplomatic triumphs of the war to date.

The only matter for regret is the lateness of the hour.

One feature of the pacts that will be hailed with joy by the countless millions of ordinary, honest people in the three nations involved, is the solemn assurance that there is not a single secret clause.

The secret agreements between Allied countries and Italy that came to light long after the war ended did much to sow suspicion among citizens of the same countries in the decades following the First Great War.

Actually, what three powers in the world are better suited to the task of bringing about a really new order?

Of all the powers of the earth only the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union possess

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

Will the war end this year? This was the question the Inquiring Reporter sought opinion on.

THE ANSWERS

HARRY THOMPSON, clerk: The war can be lost this year if Hitler takes the Caucasus this summer. I see little hope of the conflict ending in 1942.

JERRY HAWKINS, tinsmith: I see no hope of the war ending this year. Despite the political and economic soothsayers who want us to believe we are doing all right, I am confident this war may be won or lost in the next six months, but the actual ending of the conflict will not come until 1943.

• • •

JOHN HOPKINS, farmer: With China in desperate straits, and Japan threatening India it would be a very egotistical prophet who would predict the ending of hostilities this year.

Road Projects To Be Finished By Month-End

Completion of a number of major highway projects is likely by the end of June, it was reported Friday by Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works.

Construction of a 30-mile stretch between Vermilion and Lloydminster on the Jasper highway is proceeding, and it is expected that this section, which will eliminate a number of level railway crossings and reduce the distance by eight miles will be completed by the end of the month, the minister said.

HARD-SURFACING

Hard-surfacing of the Trans-Canada highway from Walsh, located on the Saskatchewan border, to Redcliff, three miles west of Medicine Hat, has now been completed. This portion of the highway is 35 miles long.

Other projects on which good progress is reported are the Lethbridge-Taber and the Medicine Hat-Suffield roads.

Insurance For Health Favored By Business Men

A large section of Edmonton's leading businessmen voted overwhelmingly in favor of a compulsory national health insurance scheme, according to the results of a survey prepared by the department of pensions and national health, circulated among 480 members of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce.

The questionnaire contained 25 groups of questions covering every possible phase of such a national plan including administration, supervision, financing, personnel, structure and others.

Of those replying to the questionnaire, 80 per cent favored a national health insurance plan, seven per cent were against it, and four per cent were doubtful.

Fifty-eight per cent. stated that everybody should be included in the benefits and 29 per cent that only those in the $3,000 or less income bracket should be included.

The Dominion and provincial governments, and employers and employees should contribute toward financing the plan, according to the desire of 66 per cent of the members, and 24 per cent felt that the whole responsibility of financing should be borne by the government at Ottawa.

In answer to a query regarding the advisability of having the national defence tax continue after the war with the funds to be used for health insurance, 42 per cent stated that such a plan would be satisfactory and 58 per cent that the money should be collected by other means.

Sixty-three per cent favored the appointment of a Dominion-provincial commission to administer the insurance plan and 68 per cent. felt that supervision should not be left in the hands of the medical, dental and nursing professions alone. Seventy-six per cent stated that supervision should be done by representatives of professions, labor, industries, businesses and women's organizations.

Seventy-two per cent stated that the insurance is to include full medical benefits and all costs and a like number felt that the patient should be permitted to choose his own doctor.

Only 51 per cent were in favor of the medical man working on a salary basis.

All but two per cent were in favor of the population receiving periodic medical health examinations.

The results of the findings were submitted to the department of pensions and national health and to the Canadian Welfare council by Reg. T. Rose, executive secretary of the chamber.

City's Defences Will Be Tested In Raid Alert

Bombs will rain from the skies, parachute troops will join with land forces in an attempt to invade Edmonton in an exercise alert being staged by the Edmonton Air Raid Precautions committee on Sunday, June 21 next, to test organization plans now completed for the defence of the city against air raids and other forms of enemy attack.

Every branch of air raid precaution work will be tested in the alert which will start with a stand by at 2 p.m. The air raid invasion warnings will be sounded at 3:30 p.m. and the all clear at 5 p.m.

Military will guard all the road and highway approaches to the city, and squads will be placed on duty at vulnerable points within the city limits. These points will be the high level bridge, the power plant, packing plants and other plants essential to the city's welfare and war effort.

STAGE "INCIDENTS"

Members of the Air Raid Precautions Committee will carry through their duties as if a real invasion was taking place. More than 1,000 air raid incidents will be simulated during the 90 minutes of the raid, it was reported by Capt. A. J. Huff, chief air raid warden, and at least two major incidents will be staged during the raid at which every branch of the air raid work will be brought into play.

More than 5,000 air raid wardens, Veterans' Volunteer Reserve members, auxiliary police and firemen, demolition squads and repair gangs, communications and messenger personnel, utility repair and operating crews and medical services staffs will take part in the test.

This test is being made to find flaws in the plans devised to protect the city from air raids and other enemy action, and the effectiveness of the test can only be as successful as the co-operation of the general public will permit.

REMAIN IN HOMES

For that reason an appeal is made by Mayor John W. Fry that during the 90 minutes of the actual air raid that all citizens remain in their homes and carry out faithfully all the instructions given them by their air raid wardens. "This is not a show," Mayor Fry stated, "it is a test of the plans laid for the safety of the citizens of Edmonton and it is their duty to co-operate to the limit with the officials putting over the test."

Captain Huff said the experiment was one in which the 95,000 residents of Edmonton could be volunteers with 5,000 of that number doing the actual work of the black out test. He was confident that the ready response and co-operation given to the work of the committee to date would be shown in the co-operation of the public during the test.

Airman Is Missing After Operations

Graduate of the University of Alberta in pharmacy in the class of '38 and a resident of Edmonton and this district before enlisting in July, 1940, Pilot Officer A. J. McEwen, R.C.A.F., is missing following air operations overseas.

A telegram stating that PO. McEwen is missing was received Thursday evening by his brother, Capt. R. A. McEwen, dental officer with the Canadian Army (Active).

The missing airman was born at Calgary, but lived for most of his boyhood at Westlock and Hythe. His father, A. R. McEwen, lives at High Prairie.

A sister, Mrs. R. Harley, lives in Edmonton.

The missing airman was a navigator observer, who had made 25 operational flights over Germany.

The airman had participated in the destructive raids on Lubeck and Stettin.

Boys Hold Aces But They Can Lose

If You Want To Be Popular With Girls Learn How To Play Your Cards; Is Sage Advice Given Young Bachelors

Of course, in the social game boys hold all the aces. The cards are stacked against girls even before they begin to play. Boys can roam at will through the rosebud garden of girls and pluck the fairest flowers, whereas all that a girl can do is to sit on the sideline and hope and pray that she will attract some masculine eye. The homeliest boy can date Miss America, but a college graduate would rather step out with the village idiot than to be left at home. Hostesses welcome stags at their parties with open arms, but woe betide the beauless Jane whose Papa brings her to the dance. Her reception is about as cordial as that accorded to a return attack of measles.

Dorothy Dix

Naturally this state of affairs has made the boys feel that all they need in order to make a killing with the fair sex is just merely to be of the male persuasion, and that it is not necessary for them to cultivate any of the amenities of civilized society, or to use any finesse in dealing with those who are only too glad to take them "as is," no matter what that is, is. This gives us the lordly sheik who honks his horn at a girl's door until she comes running out and climbs into his flivver beside him, and the Grand Pshah who, when he throws his handkerchief to a maiden, demands that she remain in the bosom of her family except when he feels like taking her to the movies.

Still, as the old proverb says, "there is a choice even in rotten apples," and while it is true that any boy can have all of the feminine society he wishes, there is a difference in one being made to feel that he is an answer to prayer, or merely being endured for lack of something better.

SCORE CARD FOR BOYS

So to the few lads who realize that they do not make a hit with the girls and who wonder why Mary and Kathleen and Sally and Susan are not more enthusiastic over them, I would suggest that they hold a heart-searching session with themselves and see how they rate on the following counts:

1. Are you slouchy in your appearance? Do you go about unshaven and unshorn, with a soiled shirt and dirty shoes, in a wardrobe that seems to have been assembled from an old clothes sale, and generally looking as if you were not on speaking terms with the bathtub? That may be collegiate, but it makes a girl shut her eyes and grit her teeth when she has to step out with such a human scarecrow.

You wouldn't want to be seen in public with a girl who didn't even look clean, so why do you think a girl would enjoy parading around with a tramp? And what kick do you think a girl would get out of kissing a boy with three days' stubble of beard on his face?

2. Are you patronizing? When you pay a girl any attention, do you act as if you were bestowing an inestimable favor upon her and one for which you hope she is properly grateful? Do you, in effect, say: "There, there, little girl, I know you don't deserve that I should notice you, but I am big-hearted Harry and I enjoy doing deeds of kindness and I know that the time that I treated you to a hamburger will be a precious memory to you as long as you live."

Believe me, son, nothing but the grace of God and the fear that they will get the reputation of being "peculiar" keeps girls from smiting the patronizing lad, hip and thigh. And a lot of them take jiu-jitsu nowadays.

VALUE FOR BEING PUNCTUAL

3. Are you a date-breaker? Are you one of the lads who pick a girl up and drop her down, according to your mood or the circumstances, without ever a thought of what it does to her evening? Do you let Geraldine sit up for hours and hours, all primped and powdered and diked up in her new dress, waiting for you to take her to a dance and you never show up at all? Girls endure stand-uppers because boys are scarce, but what they think of them—well, that's a sad story that would inflate no lad's head.

4. Are you a deadbeat? Do you expect a girl to do all the chasing? Do you expect her to do all of the telephoning, write all the letters when you are away, make all of the plans for good times? Do you expect her to wear herself out trying to entertain and amuse you and do all of the appeasing, while you do nothing for her pleasure? Do you eat her mother's good cooking and let her haul you about in her car without ever so much as bringing Mom a box of candy or paying for a gallon of gasoline? Not many people love a tightwad.

5. Are you a monologist? Do you spend hours upon hours discoursing about how great and wonderful you are and how many girls have been crazy about you, and how you told your boss where to get off, and what your golf score is? That is the idea many boys have of giving a girl a good time, and it explains why so many young women are smitten with sudden headaches when these tell-it-alls phone for a date.

The moral of all of which is, boys, that while it is true that you hold all the trump cards, it pays to learn how to play them if you want to be popular with the girls.

Babin might be classed as an overbidder, but he says that overbidding improves one's play, as you always have to be on your toes to make your difficult contracts. This certainly was true in the hand shown today.

The opening lead brought out the three of spades, 10 and ace. Babin, sitting South, led the three of hearts to the ace and then a low heart back, East winning with the queen. East chose to return the queen of clubs, which was allowed to win. Babin put up the ace on the next club, then cashed the jack of hearts.

Reading that the clubs were not split, Babin took his one chance for the contract by trying for a second spade trick. He read from East's failure to return the suit that he had the king. So Babin led the four of spades and finessed the eight when West played low. The winning diamond finesse later gave him the contract.

It Is Easy to Make Soft, Fluffy Rug

Use Candlewick Yarn

A fluffy, soft, tufted rug will just set off that boudoir dressing table to a "T". And you can make this beauty—it's easy.

For this striped design you need three soft shades of candlewick yarn—perhaps white, rose and blue—and muslin for the base.

Pencil the stripes evenly along diagonal creases in the muslin and, parallel to the creases, rule lines an inch apart over the whole surface. Make dots an inch apart on the lines.

Now, passing a needle threaded with candlewick through a dot (see our sketch), take an ⅛-inch stitch and lay a tuft of 16 2½-inch lengths of yarn across it. Then tie ends of stitch around tuft, in a tight knot.

Soon the whole rug's tufted and you're ready to sew rug to backing!

For complete directions see our 32-page booklet. Describes and diagrams exactly how to make the tufted rug; tells how to make hooked, woven, braided, crocheted rugs, in many beautiful designs.

Sends 15c in coins for your copy of "How to Make Your Own Rugs" to The Edmonton Bulletin, Home Service, 60 Front St., Toronto, Ont. Be sure to write plainly your name, adrress, and the name of booklet.

Please allow a week or ten days for delivery.

Cheese Buffet Will Make A Tasty Change

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

If you're planning a welcome-home party for men on furlough, why not figure on a cheese buffet?

Such favorite dessert cheeses as Camembert, Brie, Gouda and golden-crusted Liederkranz are all excellent in sandwich and salad combinations. Liederkranz with corned beef or shrimps makes an unbeatable sandwich filling. Brie is delicious on hot toast with strawberry jam. Camembert, pears and scallions make a tasty and unusual salad.

HOT LIEDERKRANZ CHEESE CANAPE

(Makes 8 canapes)

Eight rounds of bread, 1 package Liederkranz cheese, 1 teaspoon horseradish, 2 teaspoons mustard, 4 slices bacon.

Toast rounds of bread on one side. Blend Liederkranz cheese, horseradish and mustard. Spread on untoasted side of bread. Place a half slice of bacon on top of each round. Place under broiler or in a hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 10 minutes, or until bacon is done. Serve at once.

POTATO CHEESE STICKS

(Serves 4 to 6)

One cup mashed potatoes, ½ cup flour, 2 tablespoons melted butter, ½ cup grated cheese, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of cayenne.

Mix all ingredients together. When cool, pat or roll in oblong shape, 1 inch thick by 2 inches wide. Chill and cut into thin strips. Brush with milk if desired. Bake on cookie sheet in very hot oven (500 deg. F.) for 10 minutes.

Sunday's Menu

Breakfast—Cantaloupe, cod fish balls, enriched toast, coffee, milk.

Dinner—Tomato juice, broiled chicken, mashed potatoes, green peas, lemon meringue pie, coffee, milk.

Supper—Raw vegetable salad, hot Liederkranz canapes, stewed fruit, cookies, iced tea, milk.

What To Do

Where does the hostess stand to receive her guests?

Answer—The hostess should remain near the door so she may greet her guests easily. She should be sure that each guest knows someone in the room, so he will not be stranded and ill at ease.

If the gathering is a large one, the hostess may direct the guests to the room where they will leave their outer wraps, or have a maid who will take care of them. However for a smaller group, in a house where there is no maid available for this duty, the hostess will show the lady guests to a room where they may leave their wraps.

Your Baby And Mine

A baby's skin should be all a skin can be, smooth, soft, delicate and fine-grained. When it is not, it is a shame, for the baby looks most unbabylike with red blemishes or blackheads. Yet, quite aside from illnesses, advertised by rashes, the baby can get various skin ailments due to infection, or diets.

ELDRED

Impetigo, which spreads so rapidly from person to person, is a skin ailment from which many children have suffered. It can be passed from person to person merely by use of the same towels or wash cloths. When the baby shows red blotches on one portion of the skin, unaccompanied by any fever or sign of illness, and the spots tend to spread, it is wise and sensible to forego home remedies and let the doctor deal with this miserable burrowing organism.

Not infrequently mothers discover blackheads on the roseleaf cheeks of their fat little puddings. "How can that be?" they wonder, since their darlings have the best of daily care. Blackheads are not indicative of dirt but of the plugging of oil glands which result when the skin is unable to carry off the secretions from the oil glands. The excess fills up the pores and the action of the air on this studied it would be found to be overloaded with various fats so that the oil glands are unable to carry off the excess through the fine pores of baby's skin. Cutting down on all the fats, with the help of the doctor, ought to end the blackheads magically.

The rash which follows the inclusion of new foods in the diet is called eczema. When it is diagnosed as such, the mother can be certain that some food her child is eating is not well-borne by his system. Instead of going through the normal digestive process it is being thrown into the circulation in an undigested state and acts as an irritant to the skin.

Such a rash demands intensive study and experimentation to discover what foods are causing it and how they may be changed or replaced in the diet so that the child gets their particular type of nourishment without this disturbing and uncomfortable result.

For it can be taken for granted that with ordinary care the average baby will have an unblemished skin.

Our leaflet, "What Mothers Should Know About Eczema," may be had by sending a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

More Quick-Meal Hints

1. Plan all your menus and your shopping in advance. Keep a large stock of canned goods on hand.
2. Set the table and make everything ready in the kitchen before you leave for your Defense duties.
3. Prepare meat loaves, macaroni entrees; desserts before you leave.

It's false economy to prepare fresh vegetables ahead of time, for once vegetables are pared and cut, they lose their vitamins quickly.

Miss Williams Douglas Grout Wed At Coast

In the presence of immediate families only, Helen Elizabeth Williams, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Williams of Edmonton, became the bride of Lieut. Douglas Arthur Grout, second son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Grout of Vancouver, formerly of Edmonton. The ceremony was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grout in Vancouver on Tuesday, with the Rev. Ernest Jessop officiating.

For the ceremony which was performed in an archway banked with orange blossoms and roses, the bride was charming in a suit of ultramarine complemented with beige accessories. At her shoulder she wore a corsage of summer flowers in the colors of the bridegroom's regiment.

During the ceremony Miss Joan Grout sang "If I Built a World For You". She wore a powder blue dressmakers suit with white accessories.

Following the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Grout entertained the wedding party at dinner at the Devonshire Hotel.

For the wedding of her daughter Mrs. Williams chose a navy blue suit completed with white accessories. Mrs. Grout, the mother of the bridegroom, chose a tailored suit in Air Force blue shade complemented with accessories of dusky pink.

Lieut. and Mrs. Grout will spend a short honeymoon in Vancouver after which they will return to Leiut. Grout's station on the West Coast.

PRINCIPALS IN COAST WEDDING

Lieut. and Mrs. William Bentley Tobey are shown here just following their marriage in Vancouver Sunday. The bride is the former Miss Marion Rae of Edmonton.

Marion Rae, Lieut. W. Tobey Are Married In Vancouver

CLAIMING widespread interest in University and social circles in Edmonton is the wedding of Marion Isabel Rae, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rae of Edmonton, to Lieut. William Bentley Tobey, R.C.E., eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Tobey of Vancouver, formerly of Prince Rupert, solemnized in Vancouver Sunday. The Rev. Capt. Higgs, chaplain of the Irish Fusiliers, officiated.

Both the bride and bridegroom are well-known in Edmonton. The bride's father was for many years sheriff of the Edmonton Judicial District. The bride is a graduate of the University of Alberta with her Bachelor of Arts degree and is a member of Delta Delta Delta fraternity. She holds her A.T.C.M. degree in music.

Lieut. Tobey received his mining engineering degree from the University of Alberta and is affiliated with Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Fragrant apple and hawthorn blossoms were arranged in the home of the bridegroom's parents for the ceremony performed in the bay window of the living room. Palms, ferns and tall standards of delphinium, white stocks and shasta daisies, banked the window in setting for the wedding.

BLUE WEDDING SUIT

The bride was lovely in a suit of dove blue summerweight wool complemented with a small flower hat and chapel veil in the same blue shade. Her sheer blouse, gloves and shoes were white. At her shoulder she wore a ocrsage of yellow roses, forget-me-nots and valley lilies.

Miss Margaret Rea, of Vancouver formerly of Edmonton, a classmate of the bride's at university, was bridesmaid. She wore a jacket frock of cedar rose wool with a matching hat. Her gloves and shoes were brown suede and her corsage of talisman roses and forget-me-nots.

Mr. Donald Tysoe of Vancouver supported the bridegroom as best man. Mr. John Emerson played the wedding marches.

RECEPTION TO 30

Following the wedding Mrs Tobey entertained at a reception to 30 guests. To receive she wore an afternoon frock of sea-green crepe. Her flowers were a corsage of ophelia roses and mauve sweetpeas Mrs. James Ross, aunt of the bride, received with the bridal party and wore a redingote ensemble of black and white. Her corsage was of crimson roses and white sweetpeas.

The bride's table was centred with silver bowl of pink roses flanked by tall ivory tapers. The three tier wedding cake was placed on a small side table.

Miss Florence Edmands poured coffee and Mrs. C. H. Orme cut the ices. Mrs. Norman Lee, Miss Ardis Colbourne, of Edmonton and Miss Joyce Bate served.

TO HARRISON

Lieut. and Mrs. Tobey left for Harrison Hot Springs where they will spend a brief honeymoon. To travel Mrs. Tobey wore a camelhair top coat over her bridal ensemble. They will make their home at Chilliwack, where Lieut. Tobey is stationed.

Former residents of Edmonton who were guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Russell Copeland, Mrs. Gunter Light, Mr. Ian Robertson and Mr. William Rea, K.C.

Y.W.C.A. War Services Work Is Vital Part Of Program Today

TO THE hundreds of army, navy and air force wives whose role it has become to follow their husbands around the country "living out of a suitcase," instead of settling down in their own home to build a future together, the Y.W.C.A.'s throughout Canada have proved a veritable God-send.

With the coming of warm weather, the clubs and gymnasium are closed, but increased effort is being given along war services lines.

One of the most outstanding activities of the "Y" at this time is the Traveller's Aid. Miss Marion Foster, girls' work secretary, is now in charge of this activity, which entails the meeting of several trains daily, caring for "lost" visitors, and giving information in regard to the various hotels, etc., in the city to visiting wives and mothers of servicemen.

ROOMS REGISTRY

Rooms registry, too, is an all-important "Y" effort at this time—one in which every Edmonton citizen can play a vital role. For the hundreds of servicemen's wives and families who arrive in this city each week, there must be found rooms and suites to house them until such a time as they follow their husbands to the next stop.

The Y.W.C.A. cannot even begin to give rooms to all the women who seek them. Each day several must be turned away. These young women leave their names with the "Y," and through their rooms registry service, the "Y" appeals to the Edmonton public for rooms for these young women with their families whose husbands are stationed here on active service. A list of available rooms is kept, and a caller from the "Y" inspects them and directs the young women to them. The need for rooms at the present time is an acute one, and the Y.W.C.A. would welcome any further offers.

Increased interest is shown in the swimming pool during the summer months. The pool is under the supervision of Miss Ruth Woodsworth. For young women serving in the armed forces, the "Y" has made a special offer of free use of the pool and gymnasium at any time.

WAR SERVICES CLUB

Latest wartime addition to the work of the Y.W.C.A. is the establishment of the South Hall War Services club, where young servicemen's wives from all parts of the dominion meet each Tuesday over a friendly cup of tea, and discuss what they can do to aid in Canada's all-out war effort.

To the many who believe that summer months in Edmonton means a cessation of all club activities, a visit to the Y.W.C.A. is advised. The bustling war activities going on will prove a great source of inspiration to the more indolent who think that because they can't knit or do first aid they can be of no use to their country these days.

Salvage Group Garneau Plans "Pick-Up" Day

TUESDAY, June 16, will be salvage "pick-up" day in Garneau and all housewives having salvage are asked to take it to the headquarters for collection in their block. The Salvage Group in Garneau was organized some time ago through the Garneau Community League. Mrs. J. Adair is chairman.

In each block, householders are reminded, there is a central depot for salvage. There is a "captain", too, on each street whose duty it is to see that salvage is collected. Householders are asked to get in touch with their captains if they are not sure where the depot is, and to have their salvage there by Tuesday, when it will be collected and taken to headquarters for shipment.

Assisting Mrs. Adair are Miss Evelyn Gowan Murphy, Mrs. William V. Newson, Mrs. T. D. FitzSimon, Mrs. J. H. Thompson, Mrs. C. E. Phillips, Mrs. J. C. McKee, Mrs. E. W. S. Kane and Mrs. J. Macgregor Smith.

Arctic Bishop Is Married In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, June 12—(AP)—Rt. Rev. Archibald Lang Fleming, Anglican "Flying Bishop of the Arctic," and Miss Elizabeth Nelson Lukens, associate headmistress at the Agnes Irwin school, were married Friday at St. Mary's Church in suburban Ardmore.

The couple will leave June 25 for Toronto, the bishop's winter headquarters from which he directs much of the work of his 1,250,000-square-mile top-of-the-world diocese.

Bishop Fleming met Miss Lukens last fall when he visited the Irwin school to address students on Eskimos and the Indians of the Far North. They announced their engagement in April.

A native of Scotland, the bishop has served in the Far North for 30 years.

Miss Lukens, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lewis N. Lukens of Haverford, is a graduate of the Baldwin school, Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Three little words "Forget Me Not",
Don't seem much, but mean a lot,
Just a memory fond and true.
To show, dear mother, we think of you."

—Ever remembered by her daughter Florence, Sidney and Children

In loving memory of Mrs. Irene Gertrude Ripley, who passed away June 12, 1940.

"Many a day her name is spoken
And many an hour she is in our thoughts
A link in our family chain is broken,
She has gone from our home but not from our hearts
—Sadly missed by her husband and family

COL. BRITTON SAYS:

Europe 'V' Army Ready To Strike

By JOHN A. PARRIS

Copyright, 1942, by British United Press and The Edmonton Bulletin.

LONDON, June 12.—(BUP)—"Col. V. Britton," the mystery man who for months has organized and directed the intrepid patriot resistance to the Germans in occupied territory, said today that a vast underground army was now capable of carrying out a general uprising if and when the United Nations established a second front.

"Millions of persons in occupied countries who form the 'V' army are ready to strike," he said. "They await only my call, which I hope will not be long. Europe is beginning to realize that deliverance is at hand."

Parris

Throughout Europe, he continued, in the first interview he ever has given, the V army is already affecting Hitler's war effort by blowing up munitions dumps, wrecking troop and supply columns and harassing occupation troops.

"Right now Germany is facing a major crisis in man power, and production," he said, "and the V army's contribution has been absolutely vital. In fact, the V army created this crisis."

Royal Air Force raids and Commando thrusts, and Germany's failure aginst the Russians, has stimulated the V army.

NAZIS HEAR MURMUR

"But we do not rely on that," he said. "A more important act is that the growing Allied aggression is increasing the V army not only in occupied countries but in Germany and Italy.

"The murmur of the people is now heard in Germany. The Nazis try to drown it with their rifle squads. But it will get louder until even Hitler can hear it. And that will be the end."

Would reprisals such as those which followed the killing of Hangman Reinhard Heydrich dampen the V army's enthusiasm?

"No," he replied. "They will have the opposite effect. They will only increase the determination of the V army to win this war and end a regime so atrocious.

IN VICIOUS CIRCLE

"The Nazis are going in a vicious circle. They use terror to destroy resistance because it is the only way they know. But in fact their terror only increases resistance and this the Nazis meet with more terror. So it goes. There is but one end to this frightful progression. That is the destruction of the madman who began it. Nazi terrorism is not based on strength. It is based on fear, weakness and spiritual bankruptcy Such terrorism always fails."

Just a year ago Britton made his first appearance by radio to people in occupied countries to start getting ready for the day when they could rise and overthrow Hitler.

"They answered immediately and got down to the job of doing things which would help win the war. They have done a hundred things we have asked them.

"Today I can tell you that the potentialities of my army are great indeed, the spirit of the V army is terrific. They know the United Nations will win. They know we have a plan and because they know it they do what we ask.

"Our V army's blows will become more and more deadly, and more and more difficult for the Nazis to deal with.

"Whenever the Allies invade the continent we shall ask the V army to do just what the military situation demands."

U.S. Aircraft Carrier Blows Up After Hit

By WILLIAM F. TYREE

ABOARD U.S. CRUISER IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, May 10.—(Delayed)—(BUP)—The U.S. navy's oldest aircraft carrier, the 33,000-ton U.S.S. Lexington, was wounded by enemy bombs in the battle of the Coral Sea and several hours later blew up like a Fourth of July firecracker.

The end came when flames from leaking gasoline lines reached her torpedo lockers, detonating them with a mighty roar.

Most of the great ship's personnel had been safely removed a few minutes before the blast.

Naval officers considered her loss a light price to pay for the destruction of 23—perhaps 24—Japanese warships in the Coral Sea engagement, which was the first big clash between U.S. and Japanese naval and air forces.

TERRIFIC BLAST

A few minutes after her torpedoes went off, the Lexington heeled over and slipped from sight beneath the blue waters. The blast was so terrific that destroyers lingering nearby after aiding in rescue of the carrier's crew were almost lifted from the water.

(This delayed dispatch revealing loss of the Lexington was released for publication by the U.S. department today simultaneous with issuance of a navy department communique on the Coral Sea engagement, which raged from May 4 to 9).

Repairs Underway In Flooded Area

Repair work on highways and bridges damaged by floods in the High River district this spring is now proceeding, it was reported by provincial government officials Friday following the return of G. H. N. Monkman, deputy minister of public works, who inspected the damage.

No word has been received from the Dominion government on the province's suggestion that the dominion assist Alberta in the reconstruction of a breakwater which was washed out in the Highwood river by the flood, it was stated.

Dutch Warned Big R.A.F. Raid Coming

LONDON, June 12. — (CP) — The Netherlands government in London broadcast a warning to the population of Holland last night to keep away from the factories being used by the Germans for war production because the R.A.F. is about to attack these plants with "exceedingly heavy bombs."

Prospects For Second Front Seen Growing

By The Canadian Press

Allied capitals rang with speculation today on the prospects of three vast and perhaps imminent developments aimed at the final downfall of Germany and Japan and the shaping of a new world at peace.

While Berlin sounded a new threat of Hitler's "coming great offensive," the United Nations envisaged:

1—Creation of a second front in Europe in 1942.

2—A possible Russian attack on Japan.

3—The opening of Soviet air bases to Allied bombers for attacks on Japan.

MAY OPEN RUSS BASES

In Washington, Congressional quarters expressed belief that the "full understanding" reached between President Roosevelt and Russia's foreign commissar Vyacheslav Molotov might open bases at Vladivostok to United States bomber squadrons.

Others voiced the conviction that nothing in the mutual-aid agreement between the United States and Russia would precipitate the Russians into war with Japan while they were so heavily engaged with Hitler in the west.

It was noted, too, that the Russian-British agreement emphasized it was directed against "Germany or any of the states associated with her in acts of aggression in Europe."

CHINESE ANXIOUS

The treaty stressed the words "in Europe" seven times, clearly indicating Russia wanted to be free to maintain the status quo of an uneasy neutrality toward Japan.

Sorely-pressed China watched anxiously, with the Chinese press bluntly calling on Russia to strike at Japan now.

With the Allies united as never before—first by a new 20-year mutual assistance pact between Britain and Russia, second by a new Washington-Moscow accord wiping the dollar sign off United States aid to Russia—the question of opening a second front in Europe this year brought various reactions.

In Washington, few congress members believed the White House announcement of agreement on the "urgent task" of creating a new front portended any immediate attempt to land Allied troops in Europe.

London, Washington and Moscow were all agreed on the "urgency" of the matter, but officials shied at a direct interpretation of the rather ambiguously worded statement.

Sections of the British press which long have been clamoring for direct action against Germany hailed the accord with high enthusiasm, typified by the London Daily Express' comment:

"This is Hitler's worst day."

At all events, London military observers declared Hitler's anxiety was betrayed by two factors:

1—Frenzied German efforts to secure the Channel coast against invasion.

2—Indications that Hitler was massing his armies for an all-out attempt to smash Russia before the Allies can establish a second front.

Italy Admits Loss 2 "Torpedo Boats"

ROME (from Italian broadcasts), June 12.—(AP)—The Italians announced today the loss of two torpedo boats, one sunk by Allied torpedoes and another by a floating mine. (Destroyer and torpedo boat classes are loosely distinguished in Italian naval circles and the British News Agency Reuters interpreted the Rome broadcast as a reference to destroyers.)

—V—

It was expected a statement would be issued late Friday on the results of conferences held this week between Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, and Lt.-Col. Goodwin Gibson, Ottawa, real estate adviser to the department of national defence. Lt.-Col. Gibson was scheduled to leave Friday night for the east.

City Pilot Bombs Ship Off Holland

LONDON, June 12.—(CP)—The air minuistry news service reported today that two Hudsons of the Canadian coastal command squadron bombed and hit two Axis vessels off the Netherlands coast last night.

One Hudson scored at least three direct hits on the largest of four ships in the convoy. Another on its first operational sortie scored a direct hit on a small vessel.

Informed quarters said continued bad weather prevented the bomber command for the third consecutive night from attacking Germany.

The "Demon Squadron" aircraft that scored the three hits made such a low attack that its trailing aerial was torn off by the masts of the attacked ship.

The crew of its first operational flight was made up of PO. G. C. Walsh, Victoria, PO. K. S. Goodman, Edmonton, Sgt. C. H. Cowan, Toronto, and Sgt. W. Wright, Kenton, Man.

MEETING HELD

City Employees Will Form Committee To Co-Ordinate, Advance War Contribution

Employees of the city of Edmonton, at a meeting held Thursday night at the Memorial hall, decided to form a committee to co-ordinate, and expand their voluntary war service.

The committee, which will be known as the Edmonton Civic Employees' Victory Committee, will be representative of all branches of the civic service.

The meeting, which was under the chairmanship of Mayor John W. Fry, was attended by members of staffs of all civic departments.

CO-ORDINATE EFFORTS

Opening the meeting A. A. Campbell, city comptroller, said that a request for the holding of the meeting had come from a great many members of the civic staff who were of the opinion that greater effectiveness could be given to the employees' war effort both individually and collectively if their activities were co-related and co-ordinated.

In bringing forward this suggestion the members of the staff were not insinuating that civic employees were not fully behind the nation's war effort, but were seeking ways and means of adding to the splendid effort already achieved.

He said there were many activities being carried out by war charities in which the civic employees could co-operate. It was to determine how best the entire force of the civic employees could be placed at the disposal of the nation's drive to victory that the present meeting was called.

Mayor John W. Fry outlined the steps taken prior to the calling of the meeting, and also referred to the urge within the civic service to increase the effectivenss of the employees' war effort.

He said the employees had set an example in war effort that should be an inspiration to other workers in the city, and added that recently a donation of $7,000 had been made to the Red Cross.

SAVINGS CONTRIBUTION

He referred also to the great contribution the employees had made in the purchase of war savings certificates and Victory bonds. "They have made this contribution willingly, and are now seeking ways and means of giving further assistance. It is the desire of the employees," he continued, "to make every ounce of effort count toward winning the war."

C. E. Brown, president of the Edmonton Federation of Civic Employees, said the Federation could set up a committee similar to that now proposed, but it was felt that the organization should embrace every section of the service, and this could only be done through a committee on which every department and associated board was represented.

He said it was not the duty of the unions to carry on this work. The unions would do the job if the committee was not formed. He expressed confidence that greater results could be obtained through the proposed committee.

RESOLUTION PASSED

Following a lengthy discussion the following resolution was unanimously passed:

Whereas total war demands the fullest use of all effort in the most efficient manner. And whereas the civic employees, by their close association in their daily work, as a body, are well constituted to do this;

It is desirable and in the best interests of the war effort that this co-relation of effort be maintained and extended to the voluntary war service of all civic employees.

Therefore be it resolved that we, the employees of the city of Edmonton, do agree, herewith to associate together in furthering to our utmost such efforts as may be expected to assist in victory over our enemies, and furthermore be it resolved that this body be known as the "Edmonton Civic Employees' Victory Committee".

SALVAGE APPEAL

James Layton, Edmonton Salvage Committee, appealing for assistance in salvage work, outlined the committee's plans and asked for volunteers to help with packing, sorting and collecting garbage. He said that a house-to-house pick-up once a month was being organized, and to make this effective it would be necessary to have a representative in every city block. He asked the members of the newly formed committee to give consideration to this phase of war work activity.

Ronald Martland, representing the Northern Alberta division of the Navy League of Canada, told of the hostels operated by the League at the seaports of Canada. He mentioned the work done at Halifax in the hostel there. There was accommodation in that hostel for 550 persons, and facilities for the serving of 3,000 meals. These meals were given to the merchant seamen at cost, and free when the men were unable to pay.

He referred also to the work carried on by the League in connection with the Sea Cadets. This was a most important work in wartime, he said, and also was a peacetime contribution to the nation's welfare as it equipped the boys with self-reliance and gave them training in navy duties, discipline and citizenship.

He referred also to the work of the League in supplying ditty bags to the men of the merchant marine and read several letters received by the League from grateful recipients of these ditty bags. He asked that the committee give consideration to ways and means of cooperating in the work of the League.

Charles Blackburn appealed for volunteers for first aid workers in connection with air raid precautions work in Edmonton. He said that instruction in first aid work would be given to all volunteers.

Independents Will Contest Edmonton Seat

its feet so that after the war we can handle the heavy problems that will confront us. Determination and work will do the job. I know our Edmonton organization will do its part."

Tracing the history of the Independent movement, Mr. Page said that during the first year of its representation in the Alberta legislature J. H. Walker, M.L.A., Raymond, had been chosen Independent house leader.

While Mr. Walker was not widely known at the time, he had been chosen to offset any possible accusation that the Independents were "playing politics" by appointing a member of an old-line party, Mr. Page declared.

The following year Alfred Speakman, M.L.A., Red Deer, had been named house leader and his wide experience in politics had been responsible in large part for the movement's progress.

BEST MAN POSSIBLE

Mr. Page stated that the association had taken the view that the best man possible should be obtained as an Independent candidate to contest the by-election. "Whether he be a Liberal or Conservative makes no difference," he said.

The C.C.F. was taken to task by Mr. Page for being the first political group to decide to enter a candidate for a seat which otherwise might have been filled by acclamation.

The chairmen stated the Independents should speed up the formulation of their Edmonton constituency organization to prepare for the by-election.

PREMIER "ASTUTE"

Terming Premier William Aberhart "an astute politician," Mr. Page said the premier, if he could, would "spring a by-election on us tomorrow.'

Mr. Speakman paid tribute to the late Mr. Duggan at the meeting. The late Independent member, he said, had been held in high esteem in the legislature.

He stated the Independent Citizens' Association of Alberta was a citizens' movement, that citizenship came before party differences. He said it should be the aim of the movement to prepare a basis of sound credit in the province and also to adopt a policy which would aid the war effort.

Mr. Speakman declared the Independents had made a good showing at the last provincial election, having elected 19 members representing 130,000 popular votes against the government's 132,000.

"Before we meet the enemy we'll have a man who will be recognized by the people of Alberta as the next premier of this province," he declared, amidst applause.

Lionel Tellier, M.L.A., Independent, St. Albert, also spoke to the meeting briefly.

Hospital Inmate

George J. Jamieson, an inmate at the Oliver Mental Institute, escaped at 8:10 p.m. Thursday and is believed to have reached the city, according to a report received by city police.

Jamieson is a man of slight build. At the time of his escape he wore a dark blue windbreaker, overalls and was bareheaded.

Sixteen Fines Imposed Upon Auto Drivers

Sixteen fines totalling $141 and costs were imposed upon 15 motorists charged with breaches of various highway traffic regulations on rural highways, when they appeared before Police Magistrate Harold Hawe, K.C., in the city police court house Thursday afternoon.

Fines of $10 and costs each were imposed upon George Zeigler, Arthur Chapman, George Kontzans, Norman Tooke and John Colville, all of Edmonton; Andrew Kuchan, Bruderheim; Stanley Bahry, St. Michael; Mike Pryma, Radway, and Gilbert Ruet, Morinville.

Pryma was fined $10 on another offence, both fines to run concurrently.

Louis Wilkie, Edmonton, was fined $20 and costs and had his driving license suspended for two months when he was found guilty of dangerous driving.

FINES ARE ORDERED

Joseph F. Lambert, Edmonton, was ordered to pay a fine of $5 and costs and John Zarusky, Alex Nordheimer and Henry Nordheimer, all of Edmonton, were each fined $2 and costs.

All the above charges were laid by R.C.M.P. traffic officials during the last week for offences committed on highways leading to the city. Most of them were checked up either on the Edmonton-Jasper or the Edmonton-Lloydminster highways.

John Marianix, Edmonton, appeared before Police Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C., for a traffic offence in the city and was fined $3 and costs.

Talk Organization Plant Employees

Organization of packing plant employees, under provisions of the Packing Plant Employees Federation of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, was discussed at a meeting held Thursday at the Labor hall. Discussion was adjourned until next Thursday, June 18.

"It was the most successful meeting of packing plant employees ever held in this city," declared Carl E. Berg, general representative of the Laborers' International Union and Trades and Labor Congress of Canada. "When I say this it really means something, because I have been associated with them from the earliest days."

In addition to Mr. Berg, speakers included Alfred Farmilo, president of the Alberta Federation of Labor, Archie Johnson, and J. W. Wallin, president of Packing Plant Employees Federation, Union No. 78, Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

All speakers stressed the necessity of organizing, the improved conditions that would result therefrom and general benefits that would accrue to all.

It is expected that plans will be greatly advanced at next Thursday's meeting.

Refugee From Paris In Naval Service

Lecturer in French at the University of Alberta, Edward J. H. Greene has been accepted for service with the R.C.N.V.R., and will report shortly to an eastern Canadian station, with the rank of Sub-Lieutenant.

Mr. Greene had been studying in Paris during the early part of the war, and escaped from the French capital just before it was taken in June, 1940. Joining the long line of refugees travelling on foot, by bicycle and other modes of travel, he reached the coast and got to England in a small ship.

On returning to Edmonton, he rejoined the staff of the University where he had been previously teaching. Mr. Greene first went to Paris as winner of the French bourse at the University, and studied at the Sorbonne.

Getting Around

the physical resources that removes them from the class of potential aggressor nations.

Russia, from the standpoint of physical realism, is the natural ally of Great Britain. Russia has an internal development task that would require the attention and energies of all of her people for decades.

Soviet Russia requires no additional territory that would bring her into dispute with the British Commonwealth of Nations or with the United States. The main problem of Russia for many years to come is one of development, organization and modernization.

The pressing problem of Great Britain immediately before the war was a market for the products of her factories.

Russia could go a long way toward keeping the wheels turning in British factories. The United States faced an internal problem of production and distribution, a problem that Russia could neither aggravate or minimize.

The physical basis for war, therefore, doesn't exist with any of the three powers. And despite a lot of fancy window dressing wars are fought for possession of physical things.

And few nations have worried greatly over the religious beliefs of an ally when the situation is critical. In the struggle for Canada both the British and French had non-Christian Indian allies. Washington was mighty glad to have the assistance of the Indians against the British.

And the Moors of North Africa, Mohammedans for centuries, fought gallantly for General Franco in the Spanish Civil War.

Decision Is Reserved On Debt Law Act

specific purpose and that it did not depend for its operation on the sanction of any person or body outside the legislature itself.

Its operations, he added, will terminate 60 days after the determination of the appeal to the privy council.

He argued that the act could not and does not affect the substantive rights of creditors, it merely postpones their remedies under the law for a limited period, and therefore is sanctioned and comes squarely under sub-heading 13 and 14 of section 92 of the British North America Act. These sections refer to the property and civil rights within the province, and to the administration of justice within the province.

Mr. Wilson submitted that the act does not and could not extinguish a debt. It merely postpones for a limited period the legal remedies of creditors.

He argued that it was purely procedural in its operation, and thougn it affects the creditor's remedy it does not affect his substantive rights, or in any way cut down or interfere with the indebtedness owing by the debtor to the creditor.

Thus, he contended, the act cannot come under the condemnation emphasized by Sir Lyman Duff, chief justice of the supreme court of Canada, in his judgment declaring the Debt Adjustment act ultra vires.

In that judgment it was held that the Debt Adjustment act was ultra vires amongst other grounds that it had the effect of taking jurisdiction away from the courts and placing it in the hands of an arbitrary board which could completely take away the creditor's rights and thus in effect extinguish the debt itself.

NO OUTSIDE RIGHTS

Mr. Wilson submitted the act did not in any way deal with or affect rights outside the province. It does not prevent actions being brought in proper cases outside the province. It deals solely with actions brought within the province and is procedural in character. If a person or corporation comes to a provincial court the provincial statutes and rules of procedure must be followed, he submitted.

the war, and to take their place as responsible citizens of the country.

The training is of great value to those who may serve in the R.C.A.F., and is of value to those who may seek a career in any of the many fields connected with aeronautics. Useful purpose is also served in bringing together several hundred thousand young men of the United Nations guarding the home front.

STARS ARE SHINING

In spport of the Air Cadet League work, a "Celebrity Parade" of outstanding international stars will appear in Edmonton on Saturday, June 27. Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., will be here with the troupe, which will be headed by Anna Neagle, outstanding British stage and screen star. Air Marshal Bishop is honorary president of the league.

Members of the No. 12 (Edmonton) Squadron follow the official program of study, in addition to holding regular parades.

In their first year of study they concern themselves with aero-engines, theory of flight, air force, administration, wireless and signals practice, mathematics, first aid and model plane building.

SECOND YEAR

Syllabus of second year study includes airmanship, armament, aircraft recognition, maps and map-readings, and navigation.

All these courses cannot help but prove of practical and lasting use of the young boys who are reaching manhood and who will take their place according to the country's need, whether they are prominent in armed or civilian posts.

Caribbean Crisis

CHAPTER XIII

BILL TALCOTT'S change of manner had one immediate if unforeseen effect. It scared the daylights out of Professor Constantine.

Apparently Martha Swenson had said something to the Professor about Bill Talcott's being a "poleetical" prisoner, and he had studiously remained out of the way. But as a member of the group assembled on the pier he couldn't very well avoid Talcott, and when orders crackled from the deposed boss's lips he acted as if he expected knives and blackjacks to appear in an encore of his entry to Abas Island. When the launch came alongside, the Professor was first aboard, stowing himself as far forward as the confines of space would allow. And there he barricaded himself with luggage, muttering and munching pills.

June Paterson, unpredictable creature, also suffered an abrupt transformation. Came down from her high horse, lowered her nose and chin, inspected Bill Talcott with a new light in her wide grey-blue eyes. It made him uncomfortable, because each time he happened to glance in her direction she would blush and glance hastily away. This was a new problem; vaguely he wished she would keep on acting as a spoiled brat because that way he knew, or thought he did, how to handle her.

Martha Swenson's attitude had changed, too. Because she knew he was in trouble of some kind her sympathies were aroused. There was a new glow of warmth in her dark eyes and by accident or design he found her nearer to him; heard her low, disturbing voice directed to him more frequently. The change was startling, and he discovered it was a change he rather liked.

Struthers didn't come down to see them off. Another conference with Halsey and transfer of the precious envelope had wound him up. The last time Talcott saw him he was headed for the office. Even Halsey had been a little nettled. Talcott had overheard him confiding to June Paterson that sometimes people took themselves entirely too seriously.

To Talcott himself, Halsey had nothing to say. Plainly embarrassed he was over the way in which his handling of the transportation problem had turned out. Once in the launch he sat by June Paterson and maintained glum silence, occupying himself with a study of fleeting nimbus clouds.

MacDowell had nothing to say either. Apparently angry at Bill Talcott for refusing his advice, he wedged himself near the stern and kept solemn aloofness. There were plenty of problems other than Talcott to bother him. Already, as Sebastien turned the roomy craft toward dark water, MacDowell's ears were assuming an unbecoming shade of green.

Only black Tomas remained on the pier to watch them go. The massive native was proudly erect, accepting his new responsibility with greatest dignity. As the churning wake widened the distance between them Bill Talcott realized suddenly that he was not going away, that in truth he had never really been there. Physically, yes. His body had existed on Abas island. He had followed a routine, had worked, produced, eaten, slept and sometimes played. But he had never truly been a part of Abas.

He had brought his own world with him, his customs, traditions, thoughts and inhibitions. That world he had never left behind; had worn it all the while as a suit of armor. Of Abas he had never been and could never be a part. He and his kind could come here for a hundred or a thousand years, but Abas would always belong to the men of whom huge, patient, childlike Tomas was a symbolic figure.

The great brassy ball of the sun dropped into the sea. Brief twilight and then the moon, which had been high in the heavens since 3 o'clock, took on ghostly radiance. Low clouds moved swiftly in the brisk northeast trades.

Under the expert hand of Sebastien the sturdy launch ate up the miles in quiet, vibrationless performance. "What time will we get in?" Halsey asked Bill Talcott in his first direct approach since quitting the pier.

"I'd say at 4 o'clock or so."

"Four! Will we be able to get hotel accommodations?"

"I don't know. At worst, we can pass the few remaining hours in the launch."

June Paterson had lighted a cigaret and behind its glowing tip her eyes smoldered. "You don't seem to worry much about the comfort of your guests," she murmured in another abrupt shift to flippancy.

"In any event we can't land until we've had permission from the harbormaster," Talcott answered patiently. "We'll have to clear immigration. Just what luck we'll strike arousing anybody, I don't know."

Halsey grumbled. "Don't see why we can't tie up and go to a hotel. The authorities can wait until morning."

Talcott couldn't resist it. "Do you think Struthers would approve?"

"Damn Struthers! I know that I for one am hungry, tired and uncomfortable. I wish to heaven we'd thought to bring sandwiches!"

A lump in the stern bestirred itself. "Food!" MacDowell groaned. "Don't nobody mention that word again!"

June Paterson laughed easily. As swift and unpredictable as the wind, her mood was off on another track. "I remember," she said softly, "when I was a very little girl. We lived in the central part of New York State, and in the fall we would always go on picnics. Uncle Jack, Lowell's father, had a big farm and there was a huge woodlot with a wonderful brook meandering through it. We used to ramble through the woods, gathering butternuts and chestnuts to roast over the fire Uncle Jack and daddy had built on a slope of rock by the brook.

"One day Lowell and I decided that we wanted to go swimming and the brook was much too shallow. So while mother and Aunt Ida and my sisters and cousins were laying out the food on blankets, and daddy and Uncle Jack and the other men were smoking their pipes and talking about the country fair and harness racing and crops, Lowell and I built a dam. There was a narrow place where the brook had worn through soft rock and we chucked it full of stones and plugged the leaks with sod and leaves. We worked like beavers and everybody was so busy they didn't take any notice of us.

"All of a sudden we heard a lot of yells and daddy and Uncle Jack came running. Our dam was so successful the brook had made a pond and the potato salad and sandwiches were floating around and the fire was out. And that was the end of the picnic."

Halsey and Martha Swenson joined in her laughter, and even the Professor seemed to think it funny enough to venture a chuckle. But Bill Talcott was silent. Her recital had caused a wave of nostalgia to sweep over him. He remembered Lowell's farm; remembered the woods and the brook and the butternut trees. But through all this memory, stirred by an evident offer of truce on the girl's part, lingered the shadow that she had been spying while he and MacDowell talked.

130,000 Canucks Subject To Call By United States

OTTAWA, June 12.—(CP)—Canadians subject to the United States Training and Selective Service Act are estimated to number about 130,000, it was reported in a return made in the House of Commons yesterday for G. E. MacKinnon (Con., Kootenay East). Canadians who transfer from United States to Canadian forces become members of the active army and are available for service in any theatre of war.

Dr. F. S. McCall, principal of Alberta College, who took a leading part in the 39th anniversary commencement exercises of the college in McDougall auditorium Friday afternoon.

Banquet Ends Young People's Farm Program

To mark the close of the 24th annual Farm Young People's Week, a banquet was attended by 135 delegates to the meet in St. Stephen's College Thursday night. Chairman of the banquet was Donald Cameron, director of the University Extension Department.

Among officials attending the banquet were O. S. Longman, deputy minister of agriculture; Dr. R. D. Sinclair, acting dean of the faculty of agriculture, and Mrs. Sinclair; J. E. Brownlee, K.C., counsel to the United Farmers of Alberta, and Mrs. Brownlee, and Robert Gardiner, president of the United Farmers of Alberta.

Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. George Bennett of Mannville; Jack Marshall, W. C. Barrie of the P.F.A.A., W. H. Boyle of the Alberta Wheat Pool, and Mrs. Boyle.

Presentation of prizes took place following the dinner.

PRESENTS PRIZES

Mr. Longman presented prizes to the boy and girl having the best standing at the close of the week's course. Winners were Mrs. A. B. McLean of Vegreville, and George Finlay of Lloydminster.

For the grain judging competitions, Mrs. Bennett presented the Alberta Wheat Pool awards to Gordon Rasmusson of Standard, A. Ericson of Ferintosh, C. J. Hummell of Castor, D. McMillan of Clyde, and T. Russell of Ponoka.

Livestock judging awards, donated by the Alberta Central Cooperation Association and presented by Keith Rosenberger of Balzac, Alta., were received by E. Faught of Elnora, George Finlay and Robert Georgeson of East Coulee.

OTHER AWARDS

Mrs. Morris Law, Namayo, representing the United Farm Women of Alberta, presented household economics awards to Margery Laing of Altario, May Goodwin of High River and Clara Clumph of Freedom.

Miss Jessie Montgomery of the university extension department library, presented her cup to Edna Hearn of Genessee and Jack Marshal presented his award to Donald McMillan. These awards were given for sports competitions.

PROGRAM ENDS

The Loyalty local was awarded the handicrafts prize, and prizes for individual efforts went to Verne Flack of Open, and to Esther Schwindt of Spruce Grove and Fern Spencer of Parkland. The group from Loyalty also won the efficiency award, Corsages were presented to women members of the teaching staff by Mrs. McLean, on behalf of the students.

Following the banquet, a dance was held in Convocation hall, marking conclusion of the week's program.

Tram-Car Library Will Be Pictured

Edmonton's travelling street-car library, believed to be the only one of its kind in the world, is in for more fame and publicity. Here this week are representatives of Paramount Pictures, Hollywood, who propose filming in color the tram library and other local items of interest. They may also photograph scenes at the airport. The film men are Robert Carlyle, president and director of Scientific Films, Inc., and Frank Ramsay, cameraman. With them is Mr. Hyman of the Canadian National Film Board, Ottawa. They are registered at the Macdonald hotel.

Bank Hold-Up

MONTREAL, June 12. — (CP) — Three young men, two of them armed, held up the Notre Dame street branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce yesterday and escaped with approximately $3,000. The three men herded five bank employees and four customers into the bank's vault before making their getaway.

Figures Reveal City Reading Is On Increase

People of Edmonton are reading more. This was disclosed at a meeting of the Edmonton library board held Thursday afternoon. It was announced by Hugh C. Gourlay, city librarian, that the total circulation by book borrowers during May, 1942 was 61,906, an increase of 14,238 over the corresponding month of last year, when 47,668 books were borrowed.

From January 1 to May 31, 1942 there were 78,153 more books borrowed than in the same period of 1941.

The new street car branch has been well patronized. There were 51,272 books borrowed by 1,961 members since it was opened.

Mr. Gourlay will attend the annual conference of American librarians to be held in Milwaukee from June 22 to June 23. He has also accepted an invitation to speak from the conference over a national N.B.C. network on June 24.

There will be no meetings of the library board in July or August.

Decentralization Industry Is Seen

There is a definite trend in Eastern Canada toward the decentralization of industry, and it is possible that after the war industrial corporations will establish manufacturing plants in the west, R. L. Richards, Toronto, sales manager Auto-Lite batteries, stated. Mr. Richards is on a trip through western Canada and is registered at the Macdonald hotel.

He added that the firm he represents is now considering the establishment of a plant somewhere in the west, and possibly in Edmonton.

Mr. Richards said the labor situation in the east was becoming extremely acute, and predicted that before long a pooling system of labor would have to be adopted. He said there was a certain amount of pooling of technicians at present, and this plan, if found to be successful, would extend to skilled and semi-skilled labor.
